WARREN COUNTY

Borough Council last night discussed the proposed passage at the May 8 regular meeting of building, housing and plumbing codes. If passage is held up, Ray Marti, chairman of the planning committee, said "this may become a dead town." Page One.

The local office of Economic Opportunity received a letter from the regional office stating that the federal OEO would require submission of the county's plan of commitment documenting its non-federal share by May 1. Page One.

Bids for the Route 6 bypass around Youngsville were awarded in Harrisburg, with the $5.8 million contract going to S.J. Groves & Son of North Syracuse, N.Y. The 5.89-mile road will be a divided highway and is the first link in a series of improvements in Warren County to alleviate the traffic difficulties brought about by Kinzua Dam. Page One.

At the reservoir formed by Kinzua Dam, more than one million largemouth bass will be planted by a flying tanker Thursday. The air drop, the longest ever flown, will be made in four places. The drop is scheduled for 8 a.m. with a Forest Service airplane guiding the tanker into the reservoir area. Page B1.

Robert E. Bright, serving a prison term for an attempted robbery last year of Try-M Finance Co. in Warren, was denied a petition for a retrial. He sought the new trial because, he said, his constitutional rights were violated. The judge did not agree. Page B1.

PENNSYLVANIA

The tax issue has complicated the Shafer administration's drive for constitutional revision, the Governor said yesterday. But he said the problem is not insurmountable. He emphasized that the constitutional convention is not tied to a graduated income tax "for any other kind of tax." Page One.

The federal supreme court was asked yesterday to strike down a Pennsylvania law that requires transportation of private and parochial school pupils in public school buses. Page One.

THE NATION

Nationwide trucking and railroad disputes yesterday threatened to erupt again. Teamsters Union members voted heavily against a proposed contract settlement in initial returns. Rail negotiations remained in a state of collapse. Page A3.

THE WORLD

U.S. Air Force F-105 Thunderchiefs struck the outskirts of Hanoi yesterday, hitting the Hanoi railroad repair yard 2½ miles east-northeast of the center of the North Vietnamese capital, the American command announced. Page One.

SPORTS

Dragon track, baseball and golf events were victimized by the weather again yesterday, but the WAHS and Youngsville thin-clads expect to run today, regardless of the weather. The Dragons host Corry and Townville in the Eagle oval. Page A5.

Bert Yancey fired a birdie on the 13th hole at the Greater Dallas Open Golf Tournament yesterday to move ahead of Bob Goaly, who bogied the hole, and capture top prize money. It was the first victory of the year for Yancey, who had blown a chance to win the Masters earlier this month. Page A5.

The Montreal Canadiens mapped strategy yesterday to hold off the hard-checking Toronto Maple Leafs in tonight's Stanley Cup series game. Each team has won one game in the final series for the NHL's top award. Page A6.

Kane Flyer Helps Down MIG During Bomb Raid

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force and Navy warplanes blasted MIG air bases in North Vietnam for the first time in the war yesterday, with Navy jets returning to pound one of the fields in a night raid.

Pilots reported shooting down two MIGs around Hanoi during the day raids. One pilot said Communist antiaircraft fire was the heaviest he had ever seen.

Both of the Communist planes shot down yesterday were MIG-17s, Cmdr. James H. Wilson of San Diego, Calif., the Navy strike leader, told a news conference aboard the Kitty Hawk.

Wilson said one of the MIGs was shot down by a Navy F4 Phantom jet manned by Lt. Hugh Wiseley of Wayne, N.J., and Lt. Gary Anderson of Kane, Pa.

Jets Blast Rail Repair Yard at Hanoi Outskirts

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs struck the outskirts of Hanoi today, hitting the Hanoi railroad repair yard 2½ miles east-northeast of the center of the North Vietnamese capital, the American command announced.

The raiders also attacked an electric transformer site seven miles north of the North Vietnamese capital, the American command said.

No assessment of the amount of damage done was announced.

U.S. headquarters said that pilots flew through a heavy North Vietnamese defense of MIG jet fighters, surface to air missiles and antiaircraft fire to strike the two targets. But there was no announcement of any American plane being shot down.

Bloomsburg College Head Scores Faculty Cutback

By WILLIAM E. DEIBLER
HARRISBURG (AP) — A spokesman for Pennsylvania's 13 state colleges complained yesterday that Gov. Shafer's Budget Office had cut 120 faculty posts — enough to staff "one small college" — from the schools' proposed 1967-68 budgets.

He said the state colleges had requested that funds be approved to pay for 3,463 faculty positions, but the Budget Office had slashed the figure to 3,343.

Unless the cuts are restored, Andrus said, the schools "face the difficult choice of scheduling larger classes, assignment of heavier teaching loads, or reducing the number of students admitted as freshmen in Sept."

Councilman Foresees 'Dead Town' If Codes Not Passed

By BETTY RICE

Borough council, meeting in adjourned session last night, took considerable time to discuss informally the proposed passage at the May 8 regular meeting of building, housing and plumbing codes, the Liberty st. parking urban renewal project vs. the Citizens Advisory Committee.

Ray Marti, chairman of the planning committee, read a letter drafted last week by the Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) in which the group recommended that council delay passing the codes until the former had more time in which to review them and inform the public.

CAC did not reject the codes but believed time was insufficient for a proper study.

Marti stated he was glad the committee was active and that he understood their position. He added, however, he didn't think council could hold up passage of the codes any longer. "This must be done," Marti said, "for this may become a dead town."

The chairman told council that several businessmen had approached him urging the action. These men, according to Marti, are planning to invest at least a quarter of a million dollars in their own beautification programs.

It was brought out that without passage of the codes, recertification of the urban renewal project's workable program would be forced to start all over again from scratch. This, Marti said, would cost the borough over $40,000.

Councilman Joseph Bevevino suggested council request a time extension. Marti said that the longer the delay, the more increase in costs. President James Torrance said if we lose priority now, the Warren urban renewal project would drop to the bottom of the list as far as a federal grant was concerned.

Councilman Timm said there was a real need for these codes in running borough business, urban renewal or no, and went on record favoring council's adopting the codes and for CAC to go to work and make recommendations for amendments to the codes that are applicable to Warren borough.

It had been previously noted that the codes under review are basically standard, national codes, successfully adapted to hundreds of communities.

Tony Tomassoni also urged passage while Rockwell O'Sheill and Bevevino indicated that CAC's request should be considered.

Jack Donaldson pointed out that the codes, not yet in final form, had been given to CAC in February, but the group was not yet sufficiently organized to do anything about them.

Borough manager Victor L. Miller reminded that rules regarding urban renewal and codes were "changed in the middle of the stream."

It was originally understood, Miller said, that if council was working on codes, urban renewal could move ahead. The

Shafer Laments Tax Implication

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer said yesterday that the revenue problems confronting his administration have complicated his drive for constitutional revision but were not insurmountable.

"The question of new taxes always carries emotional overtones," he said at a luncheon briefing session with radio, television and newspaper newsmen from across the state.

"The people always resent taxes and that's understandable. But that is not an obstacle which can not be overcome."

He said his call for a limited constitutional convention is not tied in anyway to a graduated income tax "for any other kind of tax."

The purpose of the convention, he said, was to draft a new taxation and finance article designed to meet the stresses and pressures of the 20th century.

Two weeks ago, Shafer presented a $1.861 billion budget to the General Assembly, but said he needed $294 million in additional revenue to make ends meet.

"I have not said anything about any tax," the governor commented. "I haven't made up my mind. I don't know what kind of revenue sources we'll be suggesting. I have not closed the door on any revenue source because that would be dishonest."

Shafer urged the news media executives and reporters to assist him in "setting the record straight" about what exactly is included in the convention call and eight constitutional amendments on the May ballot.

For one example, Shafer cited rumors which he said were cropping up around the state to the effect that a new local government article would result in all county officials being selected by the state.

"This is ridiculous and it's up to you in the news media to set the record straight," he declared. "The convention would be empowered to draft a local government article which would make local government stronger, not eliminate it."

Bypass Contract Awarded

Bids for the proposed Route 6 Youngsville bypass were awarded in Harrisburg yesterday. Low bidder was S. J. Groves & Son of North Syracuse, N.Y. in the amount of $5,833,415.

One obstacle to the Youngsville bypass was removed when the New York Central Railroad received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to use Pennsylvania Railroad tracks between Warren and Irvine, according to William Frederick, PRR transportation engineer in Buffalo, N.Y.

According to Frederick, this permission means New York Central can abandon its tracks located on the bypass construction site. Frederick said NYC has permission to use 5.8 miles of PRR track.

A State Highway Department official, W.A. Bryan, earlier this month said his department would have to complete negotiations with the railroad before a contract for bypass construction could be signed.

The new road will be 5.89 miles long and will be a divided highway.

The Youngsville bypass will be the first link in a planned chain of improvements to Route 6 in Warren County to provide needed access.

Word that the bid was awarded came from State Sen. Richard C. Frame.

Soviet Cosmonaut Becomes First Fatality in Flight

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS

MOSCOW (AP) — Parachute straps of Soyuz 1 fouled yesterday in landing preparations to earth, killing Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov, the government announced.

The first announced fatality in space flight of either the United States or the Soviet Union came after the Soyuz, the latest and presumably the most sophisticated of Russian spaceships, had completed more than 24 hours in orbit on its maiden voyage. It was the first Soviet space flight in 25 months.

The accident cast gloom over the nation and may delay the Soviet race to the moon with the United States as scientists try to find out what went wrong.

Unexplained was why 40-year-old Komarov, veteran of a previous space flight, failed to eject. All Soviet spacecraft are presumed to have built-in safety ejection devices. One possible explanation was that the tangled parachute straps kept the ejection system from working.

Expressing sorrow at the cosmonaut's death, James E. Webb called in Washington for U.S.-Soviet cooperation in space. The administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said such cooperation might have prevented the space accident and the one last Jan. 27 in which three U.S. Apollo astronauts died in a spacecraft fire around.

Informed Washington sources also said Soviet scientists apparently made several attempts to bring the Soyuz to earth before it crashed.

But the official Tass news agency said Komarov had completed his assigned flight as he prepared to land. It said the spaceship "safely passed the most difficult and responsible braking stretch in the dense layers of the atmosphere."

"However, when the main cupola of the parachute opened at an altitude of seven kilometers — 4.34 miles — the straps of the parachute, according to preliminary reports, twisted and the spaceship dived at great speed, which resulted in Komarov's death," Tass added.

A feeling that something had gone wrong swept Moscow after all Soviet news media fell silent

Federal OEO Wants Local Office Moved from South Side

Richard M. Brown, executive director, Warren-Forest County Economic Opportunity Council, has received a communication from the OEO regional office relative to compliance with certain special condition for the local grant.

The letter, dated April 18, indicated the federal OEO would require submission of the county's plan of commitment documenting its non-federal share by May 1 — this date being extended from March 1.

Also asked is a satisfactory plan for transferring the administrative office to a more effective and appropriate location — also by May 1 with implementation to this plan by June 1.

The county commissioners recently denied a request to move the OEO office to the third floor of the court house and to supply additional furniture but continued their non-federal assistance in providing and maintaining the present office on the south side.

Commissioners D.H. Lay and Lewis L. Crippen agreed to reconsider the move this fall while Blain M. Mead opposed the entire OEO program.

The federal OEO office suggested that a substitute non-federal share appropriate to the grant and of reasonable value be considered and offered several suggestions — this in lieu of new furniture.

Brown was advised the present administrative quarters, limited to a one-room office, was completely inadequate for the expanded staff and scope of operation approved. The main OEO also stated that "the location of the office in a one-room converted garage in a middle-class neighborhood is completely out of the mainstream of both community life and the poor residents of your counties."

OEO did suggest, however, that perhaps a commitment could be secured that suitable space would be provided by the county commissioners beginning Oct. 1, or that Warren-Forest OEO obtain another donor.

Copies of the letter, signed by Leveo V. Sanchez, regional director, were forwarded to the commissioners.

FOR MAYOR, COUNCIL, SUPERVISOR

Jamestown Demos Endorsed by Party

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Candidates for a June 20, primary to select six councilmen-at-large and a third ward councilman on the Democratic ticket were endorsed by Jamestown City Democratic Committee at its meeting Sunday night.

The committee recommended eight candidates for two six councilmen-at-large posts, and two candidates for councilman from the third ward. Recommended for councilmen-at-large are the following:

Nicholas F. Schepis of 7 Hughes ave.; Frank Smrekar of 58 Harrison ave., city council president John B. Carlson of 1014 1/2 Washington st.; Benjamin C. Spitalo of 12 City View ave.; Dr. William J. Tracy of 101 Forest ave.; LaVerne Webeck of 197 Linwood ave.; Jeffrey Nelson of 713 Newland ave.; and John P. Ilig of 131 Myrtle st.

The committee recommended Clyde Cummings of 76 Baker st. and Edison LeRoy Jr. of 11 McKinley ave. for the post of third ward councilman.

The committee agreed to circulate petitions for all of the above-mentioned candidates who are involved in primary contests.

Mayor Fred H. Dunn, who is seeking a third term, was also recommended by the committee.

Five incumbents were also recommended for ward councilmen in addition to one newcomer and one former office holder.

Recommended for first ward councilman was James P. Frushone of 901 Prendergast ave. Louis Peterson of 68 West Fourteenth st. was endorsed for second ward councilman, Cummings and LeRoy for third ward, and Joseph C. Spitalo of 179 Barrow st. for fourth ward councilman.

Robert E. Godfrey of 227 Clyde ave. was recommended for a third term as councilman from the fifth ward and Samuel G. Colera of 43 Andrews ave., a newcomer, was recommended for sixth ward councilman.

Claude E. Townsend and R. Theodore Smith, incumbent supervisors-at-large, also received the recommendation of the committee, as did Daniel R. Larson of 100 Falconer st., who served from 1961 to 1965 on the county board of supervisors.

Incumbent supervisor Anthony Riolo of 36 Wescott st. was recommended as the candidate for supervisor from the fourth and fifth wards.

The committee recommended that Theodore Vimmerstedt of 11 Eliot ave., presently serving as a supervisor-at-large, switch over to the third and sixth wards to challenge Republican Bert C. Bloomquist.

A candidate for first and second ward supervisor to oppose GOP incumbent Daniel Lincoln was not named, but an announcement is expected this week.

Henry Addresses State Workers At Indiana U.

Jack Henry of Warren, a Warren State Hospital employee and president of the Pennsylvania State Employees Council (AFI-CIO), spoke last night at Indiana State University, Indiana, Pa.

Henry supported state constitutional revision and commended the Shafer administration's enforcement of 1965 amendments to the state's Fair Labor Standards Act. He criticized a statement by the personnel director of the state Office of Administration concerning salaries of state employees.

Henry is a member of the Political Education Study Committee of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

He said the Shafer administration intends to extend to all state employees after July 1 the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. There will be a change, he said, in the merit increment policy "which will again permit an employee to receive a merit increase after 12 months with an overall rating of 'good' on their performance rating."

He added, "The policy of penalizing 'good' employees for three months on the merit increases has been discontinued."

The labor spokesman said the state administration office personnel director, Dr. Eckerman, is attempting to give a "false impression" of state salaries. Henry said 24 other states pay their employees higher salaries than Pennsylvania's. The Office of Administration uses, he said, an abbreviated survey of selected positions in selected states "to indicate that Pennsylvania salaries paid either on a minimum or maximum level rank anywhere from sixth to first in comparison with other states."

DISASTER'S IMPACT

Russian Space Program Slowed

By JIM STROTTHMAN
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The death of Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov could delay the Soviet man-to-the-moon drive in much the same way the Apollo 1 fire snuffed U.S. efforts, Western experts predicted yesterday.

It also probably was a prelude ending to what was supposed to be a space spectacular, they noted.

"Like any other accident," said Dr. Charles Shelton, consultant to the National Aeronautics and Space Council on Soviet space affairs, "the length of delay depends on the assessment of what went wrong."

"A review board must determine what went wrong, studies to see what it means must be made and prominent people must assess policies," as occurred after the Apollo 1 tragedy, said Shelton, one of the most knowledgeable Western experts on Soviet space programs.

Accomplishing these things after the spacecraft fire killed Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee delayed the U.S. man-to-the-moon program perhaps as much as one year, space agency officials said.

Despite words to the contrary from the official Soviet news agency Tass, Western observers are convinced Soyuz 1 was supposed to perform a much bigger space adventure.

"We had hints all along from Moscow that they were up to something spectacular," Shelton said. "You don't put one man up in a low earth orbit and call it spectacular. We did not see the rest of their operation."

Miss Warren County Pageant Entries Due

Thursday is the final day for girls to enter the Miss Warren County Pageant, which is scheduled to begin at 10:30 p.m. Friday in Beatty Junior High Auditorium.

Starting today, a notice will appear in county high schools in an effort to attract more entries.

Ross Kremer, director of the local pageant, announced last night that the man in charge of the state pageant, Jack Myers of the host city, Hershey, will be in Warren this weekend. Myers will be here to assist in the overall organization of the local contest.

Working with Kremer on the pageant are Les Rickey, Ed Standley and Dennis Frushone.

Last year nine girls participated in the Miss Warren County competition.

He said public apathy was the "basic enemy" in his drive for revision, adding: "This is what you can help to overcome."

He appealed that the newspapers and radio and television stations through out the state appeal daily for voter approval of the constitutional package in the May 16 primary.

He devoted a good deal of his discussion to the question of the graduated income tax, which has been attributed by constitutional revision proponents as the major factor in past defeats of convention calls.

"I would like to remind the voters that the platforms of both political parties are opposed to such a tax and this ought to be explained."

"Whether the people can expect an income tax or not (this year) is not involved in the convention. The question has nothing to do with what the legislature is likely to do on taxes."

It has been reported that Shafer's blue-ribbon tax commission has recommended that a flat tax on adjusted income be considered as one alternative to resolving the state's revenue problems.

Shafer reminded the news media representatives that local wage and income taxes already are levied throughout Pennsylvania.

The convention, he added, would be strictly prohibited from altering the provision of the present constitution which the courts have held bars the enactment of a graduated tax in the Commonwealth.

gram approved last night for council were: Buffalo Slag Co., 1,050 tons slag material, $3,990; General Concrete Products, gravel material, 750 tons, $1,612.50; Kopper Co., tar material, 19,000 gallons, $3,562.50; Al Trott Co., asphalt material, 25,000 gallons, $4,100.

Council also approved Part C of the street lighting program which would provide mercury vapor lamps in the rest of the borough at an additional cost of about $5,768 a year. Parts A and B, the main streets and principal arteries, have already been replaced by the mercury lights.

Then 11 hours after that report came a terse Tass bulletin and the news broke on Moscow radio and television. But throughout there was no hint of where the crash occurred or what time of day it happened.

The Soviet Communist party and government announced that Komarov would be given a hero's funeral in Red Square and would be buried at the Kremlin wall.

No date for the funeral was announced.

It also was announced that Komarov would receive for the second time the nation's highest award, "hero of the Soviet Union" with gold star. A statue of him will be erected in Moscow.

Budget

ember, 1967."

The Budget Office has recommended that $49.1 million be appropriated for the 13 state colleges and one state-owned university, the Indiana University of Pennsylvania. The 14 institutions received $35.8 million for the current fiscal year.

In addition, the office has recommended that $500,000 be approved for a reserve fund for emergency operations and the state schools. This would make a total appropriation of more than $50.1 million.

Earlier, Dr. Willis E. Pratt, president of Indiana University, had said that the institution had requested $6.1 million, more than $2 million above its current budget, to help finance several expansion projects.

Pratt said the school now must limit its freshmen class to 2,300 or 2,400 students.

County 4-H Clinic Here

Warren County 4-H clinic will be held at 8 p.m. today in the court house for leaders of 26 clubs.

The clinic is for both adult and teen-leaders, interested in keeping up-to-date with the 4-H Club program. Special attention will be given to leaders having a year or less experience in club leadership.

Mrs. Sharon Corey, associate home economist of Warren County Extension service, will lead the section for teen-leaders. This will include work in record-keeping and awards.

Associate County Agent Norman Perschke will be leader of the adult section.

Rail, Truck Strikes Pose New Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nationwide trucking and railroad labor disputes threatened yesterday to erupt again. Teamsters Union members voted heavily against a proposed contract settlement in initial returns and rail negotiations remained in a state of collapse. Congress appeared ready to step in again if necessary to block a rail walkout, and federal officials kept close watch on the trucking situation which led to a three-day national lockout two weeks ago.

Early voting results from about 10 per cent of the 450,000 Teamsters involved were running about 2 to 1 against the trucking contract.

An Associated Press count showed a vote of 27,152 to 14,453 against the three-year contract proposal that would give increases of about 70 cents an hour in wages and fringe benefits.

Teamsters now receive from $3.32 to about $5 an hour, plus fringe benefits.

The second major trucking shutdown is already under way in Chicago in a separate contract dispute strongly affecting the national voting.

Union members in Chicago, where strikes and lockouts idled some 45,000 drivers, are demanding 20 cents more than the proposed national agreement.

In Congress, meanwhile, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz reported to the Senate Labor Committee after saying "collective bargaining has fallen flat on its face" in the wage dispute between the railroads and six shop craft unions.

"We all know that we cannot countenance a railroad strike at this hour of crisis," said Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Congress earlier blocked the threatened rail strike for 20 days, but the time expires at 12:01 a.m. May 3 and stronger legislation appears likely.

"When the Congress does act it is very likely to leave both labor and management very unhappy," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Wirtz made no recommendations for legislation on behalf of the administration, and Javits said: "It's high time the President tells us what he wants if negotiations fall down. If he won't tell us, I for one am for the Congress telling him what we've decided."

Johnson, in "one final appeal" to the railroad negotiators Saturday for a voluntary settlement, said "the matter is one of dollars and cents alone, and the real differences between the parties, in our judgment, are not great."

Johnson said the demands of the six unions representing 137,000 workers amount to 6.5 per cent, compared with 6 per cent recommended by a special White House committee and 5 per cent offered by the railroads.

Pay now averages $2.90 an hour.

Distribute Shrubbery In County

Today and tomorrow trees and shrubs will be distributed by the Soil Conservation Office in the courthouse, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

These various species are available to land owners who want to establish cover and winter food for wild life. Distribution is in the charge of Willis Ebner, Soil Conservation technician.

These trees and shrubs are surplus stock left after supplying farms on which there are game projects. Under this program cooperators open their properties for public hunting. The Game Commission supplies trees and shrubs for wild life food and cover. The surplus remaining is offered jointly by the Soil Conservation Office and Game Commission for land owners in the Warren County Soil Conservation District.

Among the species of shrubs and trees available from Pennsylvania Game Commission nurseries are: Scotch pine, red pine, Norway Spruce, white spruce, willow cuttings, bitter-sweet, multi-flora rose, black locust, Tartarian honeysuckle, autumn olive, asiatic crab apple and coral berry.

The Warren County Conservation District is jointly administered by the Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Warren County Extension Service in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State Game Commission, Pennsylvania Fish Commission, Pennsylvania Department of Forest and Waters, Pennsylvania Department of Highways.

Gerald Bensink is chairman of Warren County Soil Conservation District.

Scientist Will Address County Science Faculty

The manager of Struthers Scientific's freeze-concentration division, Neophytos Ganiaris, will address Warren County science teachers at Pace's Pizzeria at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow.

He will speak on "freeze concentration of comestible liquids."

Before joining Struthers, Ganiaris worked for DuPont and the research division of New York University. He holds U.S. and foreign patents on freeze concentration and is the co-author of technical papers on freeze desalination of sea water and non-Newtonian fluid flow.

He obtained a B.S. in chemical engineering from Purdue University and a master's degree in the same subject from New York University. He is a member of Phi Lambda Upsilon an honorary chemical society, and of the ACS and the AICE.

Chairman of the local science teachers' group is Louis Salerno. Co-chairman is Leslie Erickson. Coordinator is William R. Miller.

World Jewish Population Observes Passover Feast

JERUSALEM, Israel — The celebration of the festival of Passover began last evening in Israel and elsewhere in the world as Jewish families gathered to participate in the "Seder", the traditional banquet.

The festival marks the anniversary of the liberation of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage 3,000 years ago.

Seated at tables laden with foods symbolizing the exodus, the families read and listen to the reading of the Hagada, the legend of the flight from Egypt.

For Israelis, the Seder celebrated their 19th Passover since the establishment of the state, an event that many Jews regard as symbolizing the end of their wandering.

At Lydda Airport near Tel Aviv record numbers of tourists arrived for family reunions or pilgrimages to Jerusalem. The record of 4,600 arrivals in a single day was surpassed Sunday when 5,000 persons disembarked.

Many seder tables in Israel have an empty chair symbolizing the plight of Soviet Jews and their separation from world Jewry. Israel has long sought an easing of the restrictions on emigration of the Soviet Union's estimated three million Jews.

Traffic within Israel reached a holiday peak earlier yesterday as 1,250,000 bus passengers traveled to join family and friends at Seders throughout the country.

Special Seders have been organized for tourists in hotels and resorts. Members of diplomatic missions are generally invited to Kibbutz settlements and many non-Jews living in Israel are guests at family celebrations.

Gen. Westmoreland Tells AP Members Anti-War Protests Cost U.S. Lives

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland revised a major speech at the last minute yesterday to include the statement that his troops in Vietnam "are dismayed, as I am, by recent unpatriotic acts here at home."

As he spoke, about 100 anti-war demonstrators marched and chanted outside, clashing with police who halted their attempt to burn an effigy of the four-star general. Earlier this month, draft cards and an American flag were burned at another half-the-war rally.

Addressing the annual luncheon of The Associated Press at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, Westmoreland declared: "Regrettably, I see signs of enemy success in that world arena which we cannot match on the battlefield."

"He does not understand that American democracy is founded on debate, and he sees every protest as evidence of crumbling morale and diminishing resolve. Thus, discouraged by repeated military defeats but encouraged by what he believes to be popular opposition to our effort in Vietnam, he is determined to continue his aggression from the North. This, inevitably, will cost lives — American, Vietnamese and those of our other brave allies."

In response to a question, Westmoreland said, "I was delighted to learn of the two MIG bases bombed today. It is true that MIGs could take sanctuary in China, but they would be at a disadvantage operating from these bases rather than from Vietnam."

To another question, the 53-year-old general said, "We are picking up more prisoners. There are more defectors. A year ago it was primarily limited to lower ranks, but now we're getting some senior officers."

In his speech, however, Westmoreland cautioned that "the end is not in sight. I foresee in the months ahead some of the bitterest fighting of the war."

Westmoreland spoke to editors and publishers gathered for the AP meeting that traditionally launches New York's spring newspaper week. It was his first major speech since he took command in Vietnam in August, 1964.

In a prelude to his appearance, Sens. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., differed sharply on some aspects of the Vietnam situation.

In a panel discussion at the AP meeting, Percy said that only last week the State Department and the Defense Department had assured him the policy was not to bomb MIG airfields.

"This indicates to me that a U.S. senator simply can't get the information that he seeks from the executive department," Percy declared. "This is one step nearer involving Red China in the conflict."

Percy, as a critic of the Johnson administration, said, however, that he thinks a referendum would support the Vietnam course being followed by the administration. He suggested that "the best avenue to peace may yet be in an all-Asian conference to end the war."

Byrd, a strong Johnson supporter, agreed with Percy on the desirability of additional combat aid from Asian nations, but added, "I feel the logical course for the United States to follow is to permit our military leaders to conduct the war in such a way as to bring it to the earliest possible conclusion."

Rotarians Hear Discussion Of Bimetallic Wire Strips

Rotarian Henry McConnel of Torpedo Core and Strip Company was speaker at Warren Rotary Club yesterday at the Blue Manor.

McConnel described the processes employed in the Torpedo plant for the manufacture of composite wire or strip, made up of two or more metals. The various process of tubing, plating and hot metal coating were discussed.

Various purposes are accomplished by two or three metals, he said, steel core gives greater strength to copper conducting wire. Some metal wires or strips are coated with another metal in order to provide greater wearing quality. Another application, particularly in case of aluminum wire, is to add metals that will facilitate soldering, he added.

A space age application of the process is to provide temperature protection to wires used as conductors, both in aircraft and space capsules and satellites, where they are subjected to high temperatures for extended periods of time, McConnel noted.

Harold Hampson conducted a formal induction ceremony for two new members of Warren Rotary Club: C. Robert Gustafson, formerly a member of the Sheffield Rotary Club, and now assistant cashier of the Warren National Bank, and John Larry Mong, principal of Market Street Elementary School.

Frank Christy announced plans for annual President's Night. Dr. P.H. Augustine will be the speaker. The affair is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. May 22 at St. Paul Center in Saybrook.

Past president badges were presented to Bill Lutz and C.F. Henry Wuesthoff.

Vice President Henry Powell announced next week's meeting will be the annual Crippled Children's Society Rotary Day. Guests will be Mrs. Horace Cray, Warren County Crippled Children's Committee nurse Mrs. Mary E. Dickerson and Andrew Yurick, physio-therapist.

Warren Area High School senior guests of Rotary were William Potter and Roger Cogswell.

Other guests were the Rev. George Boone of Philadelphia, John Kolstee of Warren and Allen Scilly of Pittsfield, Past Rotary District Governor.

Region Three Scout Executive Visiting Here

Deputy Scout Executive for Region 3, Boy Scouts of America, Donald Simpson, is visiting Chief Cornplanter Council headquarters here.

He is conferring with Scout Executive William W. Wolfersberger and District Executive John Kloos on the overall program for the council and the upcoming in-service training session for Scout executives from 17 Boy Scout Councils, scheduled for next Friday and Saturday at David Mead Hotel in Meadville. This is a general seminar on management problems.

The faculty includes Donald Simpson, Paul Wilson, from Charleston, W. Va., member of Region 3 Executive Committee; Regional Executive for Region 3, Olaf Slostad.

The Boy Scout Council Executives who will be attending are: William W. Wolfersberger, Warren, Chief Cornplanter Council Boy Scouts of America; Thomas F. Lehmier, Lancaster; Charles E. Atcheson, Wilkinsburg; Gilbert S. Turner, Altoona; Earl S. Black, Bradford; Vincent Borrelli, DuBois; Ernest Spangler, Erie; E. M. McAllister, Johnstown; George Wilkins, New Castle; Peter Bernert, Sharon; E. R. Sanford, Oil City; Thomas Coyle, Butler; John Wood, Indiana, Pa.; Herbert Platts, Muncie; Samuel Scruggs, McKeesport; Llewellyn Jordan, Lewistown; and Thomas Ewing, Greensburg.

New U.S. Operation Underway in Viet

(c) N.Y. Times News Service SAIGON — The United States military command announced last night the start of the third large-scale combat operation this year in the jungle northwest of Saigon.

About 14,000 to 15,000 men, mainly infantry and artillerymen, began maneuvering early Sunday morning in Operation Manhattan.

By late last evening no major fighting had been reported.

"We are going to make a thorough search of this area; we're not expecting a big fight," one briefing officer said. "Our aim here is to clear out what they have."

The operation area is an oblong patch of dense jungle centered about 50 miles north northwest of Saigon and split lengthwise by the Saigon river.

According to intelligence reports, the enemy's 83d Logistic Group has major bases in the jungles and some officers believe elements of the Viet Cong's Fourth Military Region headquarters, the coordinating center for activities in Saigon and the provinces that surround the city, may also be there.

American officers believe elements of the well-equipped Phuloi Viet Cong battalion may be in the area, but they feel the role of guarding weapons and food caches has been assigned largely to local guerrillas operating in small bands.

The main fighting units of two United States Army divisions, have been committed to the operation. First Infantry Division troops are maneuvering on the east and 25th Division soldiers are on the west. They are maneuvering toward the river, which will eventually be swept by allied small craft. The First Division has two battalions of South Vietnamese government troops with it, the 25th division has one.

At 2:30 a.m. Sunday, a formation of B-52 Stratofortresses loosed tons of bombs on the quiet, moon-lit jungle in the southwest portion of the operation area.

By noon another B-52 raid had been carried out and tanks had smashed through about 10 miles of jungle and six unopposed air assault landings, with a battalion of about 500 men each, had been completed.

Four Warren area men have been ordered to report for induction in the armed forces. The local May 1 draft call affects James R. DeFazio, James C. Amos, Jerry B. Manchester and David H. Schumann.

A selective service system representative said yesterday that three of the four called have volunteered to be drafted.

Ordinarily the local draft call is greater, the representative said. Often, because of deferments, as many as 25 or 30 must be called in order to get three or four actually reporting for induction.

Potpourri . . .

That six and one-half inches of snow fell on Warren yesterday morning. We are talking to you lucky people who realize that April is an unpredictable month and are still basking in the southern sun.

But one good thing: the winter softie's mind won't be torn between the golf club and lawn mower for at least a few days.

A GOOD POINT

A reader sent us a clipping this week with a theme of "it's what you do with what you've got" that counts, not what you've got.

The author was referring to funeral homes, noting that many of these establishments are not newer, but older, traditional homes. He pointed out that a number of the brightest beauty spots are the buildings and lawns of funeral directors and that if you wanted some pointers on grounds care or building maintenance, you could find no better place to pick them up.

We can say the same is true here in Warren. The funeral directors set a high standard for every citizen to shoot for—and we shouldn't take it for granted.

NEW FEATURES

The T-MO this week will start two new features that should be of great interest to teen-agers and their parents; also area golfers. Both will start Wednesday.

The one, entitled "A Teen-ager's First Car," by Henry Gregor Felsen is a twelve-part series on such subjects as "How Much Does a $500 Car Cost?" and "Why You Must Get Your Insurance First."

The author has written 30 books

Would You Believe

mostly about teen-agers.

The other feature is "Gary Player's Golf Class." Duffers will find it on the sports pages three times a week.

It should also be noted that the League of Women Voters' "Know Your County" series will resume this week.

COCKFIGHTING

We have received an "unsigned" letter from one allegedly arrested for participating in a cockfight held recently in Warren County and raided by lawmen. The author states that those attending are taxpayers, and are good sports who participate in this type of event—not that they are blood thirsty—because they enjoy good fellowship. In addition he claims the participants do not consider the sport inhumane.

Those present at the cockfight were charged with cruelty to animals and participating in activities below the dignity of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the writer claims. He questions whether a fowl is an animal. This is hardly the point in the broad sense of the law.

The author further states cock-fighters believe shooting a deer with an arrow is more inhumane than their favorite sport; or the cop who shoots the next door neighbor kid's dog who slipped a collar.

He may have made some points to think about, but this is hardly the way to go about changing things. Cockfighting is illegal, and those who enjoy it so much are not going to make it legal by breaking the law. They should make an effort to change the law.

RUSSELL BAKER

Our Age: Fears Unlimited

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Man's talent for constantly creating new menaces to himself is illustrated again by the oil slicks that have polluted Cornwall, Cape Cod and Nantucket. This summer for the first time since World War II, people who want to go swimming will have to contend with the possibility of being smothered in errant sludge.

Baker

Admittedly, it is not a subject for major nightmare, like atomic bombing, but it would be a mistake to dismiss the terror of death-by-oil-slick as a triviality. What makes the contemporary world a place of fear is the accumulation of minor horrors that are the spin-off of progress.

Terror of the bomb is surely an unsettling element in a man's view of life, but it has been so publicized as a factor in the prevailing derangement that we have lost sight of the dozens of little daily threats to sanity and survival that make life a continuing hazard.

This is a world where a person may refuse to go swimming for fear of being smothered in oil, and on the trip home be suffocated by refinery fumes while driving the New Jersey Turnpike through Rahway.

Little terrors lurk everywhere. Who has not changed his mind about sitting on his front lawn some balmy night because he has reflected that passing motorists might stone him to death with empty beer cans?

Who has not shuddered, upon stepping into a self-service elevator, with the realization that he lives in a world capable of imprisoning him for eight hours between floors with no way of turning off the canned music?

All these fears are peculiar to the times, just as the fear of receiving a broken arm from the Model-T Ford's crank was peculiar to the 1920's and the fear of receiving a kick in the head from the old gray mare was peculiar to the buggy age.

Progress has eliminated these and given us the more sophisticated dangers of having fingers chewed up in the sink garbage grinder and the mind shredded by machines that answer telephone calls.

Not long ago a woman boarded a plane in Chicago to go home to Los Angeles and discovered a few hours later that she was arriving in London. That is the kind of horror peculiar to the 1960's—you plunge into the ocean and get a petroleum bath, you dial a number and get a machine that talks, you leave for Los Angeles and arrive in London, and terror proliferates.

Everybody at one time or another must have received one of those curt notices that computers are fond of mailing out, notifying people that their bills are unpaid. It will be impossible to convince the computer that it is in error.

In an inexorably predictable series of increasingly nasty communications, the computer will respond first with surliness, then with insult, then with threats. If taken seriously, the experience can become pure nightmare. We want the computer to understand us, to respond with sympathy and apology, but the more we talk to it, the more cruel it becomes.

Here, surely, is the making of madness. In bad cases people lie awake nights hating the computer, devising cunning revengees upon it, composing brilliant squelches to mail to it so that it will be too humiliated to reply. The fear of having an angry computer down on him is a terrible thing for a man to live with when it becomes intertwined with his fears that a machine may answer the telephone, that his flight to Buffalo may really be taking him to Caracas, that the garbage grinder may seize his index finger, that he may be fatally wounded by a flying beer can.

Life becomes a progression of tiny nightmares. What if some joker has salted LSD into the sugar cube he puts in his coffee and ends him on a psychedelic trip? It could only happen in our time.

What if he outrages the three most important businessmen in the world for the dinner check, which comes to $117.65, and is told by the manager, "I'm sorry, but we don't accept credit cards?"

And now, this summer, oil slicks off the beaches. It is remarkable that anyone has enough fear left over to spend on the bomb.

Greece, with a recorded history going back to 7666 B.C., reached the peak of its glory in the fifth century B.C., and by the middle of the second century B.C., it had declined to the status of a Roman province.

JOSEPH ALSOP

Now We Really Know -- I

WASHINGTON — Now we REALLY KNOW the answers to several of the most vital questions about the Vietnamese war — the very questions which are most endlessly and fruitlessly debated here.

The answers are contained in a series of captured enemy documents that give the kind of insight one would get from the most secret communications between the White House, the Pentagon and the U. S. Command in Saigon. The comparison is exact, since the more interesting documents reveal the Hanoi government imparting its policy decisions to its Southern High Command — its "Central Office, South Vietnam," commonly known as COSVN.

All three of the most important items in the collection concern the 12th plenum of the North Vietnamese Communist Party, which set the course of the war to date with its "12th resolution" in March of last year. One is a long letter about this "12th resolution" from the North Vietnamese First Party Secretary, Le Duan. This was picked up in a copy transmitted by the North Vietnamese commander in chief in the South, Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh, to another high COSVN cadre, McNamara to Westmoreland to Lodge is the best parallel.

In addition, Gen. Nguyen Van Vinh, chairman of the reunification committee of the North Vietnamese Communist Party, was sent South to explain the 12th plenum's decisions to COSVN in person. Two mutually confirmatory records of Gen. Vinh's lecture to COSVN have also been picked up, and in some respects, they are even more interesting than the Le Duan letter. All three documents, with their tone of uncontestable command, leave no doubt whatever that the national liberation front is indeed a front, and nothing more.

Although a year old, the answers provided by these documents are quite obviously still valid today. Since they have received almost no public attention, more than one report needs to be devoted to them. And the best place to begin is with the strikingly interesting answer to the ever-recurring question concerning Hanoi's real relationship with Peking.

Here the records of Gen. Vinh's lecture provide ample and fairly startling evidence. One of them describes the general as saying, "China gives us wholehearted support, but she has her weak points: fighting to the end; her technical ability is inferior to the Soviet Union; her struggle against revisionism is still too extreme."

The other record is far more detailed: "China holds the view that conditions for negotiations are not yet ripe, not until a few years from now, and, EVEN WORSE, seven years from now. In the meantime, we should continue fighting to bog down the enemy and should wait until a number of socialist countries create adequate conditions for strengthening their main force troops to launch a strong, all-out and rapid offensive, using all types of weapons and heading no borders. What we should do in the South today is to wait until China has built strong forces to launch (thus) all-out offensive."

"Our policy," the lecture notes continue: "to continue fighting until a certain time when we can fight and negotiate at the same time."

There is much more about Peking's fallacious advice on Hanoi's relations with Moscow, but this had best be dealt with in a later report on that equally crucial relationship. The passages quoted are enough to show three things of great importance.

In the first place, they show that it has always been perfect nonsense, as most observers with Asian experience have always contended, to suppose that Peking has power to control Hanoi's decisions about negotiations or anything else. If Hanoi flatly rejected Peking's advice a year ago, one may be certain that undesired advice from Peking would be rejected with still greater alacrity today, after the frightful turmoil and upheaval of China's lunatic "cultural revolution."

In the second place, the records of the Vinh lecture show that there was never any question of China entering the war, at any rate until the distant date when the Chinese would be ready with "weapons of all types." And in the third place, they also give full and final confirmation to the view, often expressed in this space, that Peking strongly urged Hanoi to respond to U. S. intervention in Vietnam by pulling back into Mao Tse-tung's Phase II, and digging in for long years of classic guerrilla fighting to "bog down" the enemy.

This strategic advice was rejected by Hanoi, and Peking was also told, quite obviously, that Hanoi would begin negotiating whenever the circumstances seemed advantageous. These are now-proven facts that are pregnant with meaning.

They even have meaning with respect to the war in the South, for in the abstract, China's strategic advice was excellent. One cannot doubt it was primarily rejected because the Hanoi war planners feared their forces in South Vietnam could not stand the strain of "fighting to the end."

Window-Dressing Affairs

HARRISBURG — An "effort in futility" perhaps best describes the legislative "grilling" currently under way as lawmakers peer into (or at) the near $2 billion budget the Shafer Administration has asked Pennsylvania's taxpayers to underwrite.

Few will dispute the contention that the joint House-Senate Appropriations Committee hearings into the budget requests of various and sundry state agencies as outlined by the Administration in its record-breaking fiscal tome are little more than window-dressing affairs at best.

The contrast between this and many a previous year budget grillings by the House and Senate appropriations committees is striking.

This year, for example, with Administration Republicans in control of both House and Senate (and therefore running the show on the committee front — which of course includes the budget-preening appropriations committees) it's almost as though the orders from on high read simply: "Shut up — don't ask questions!"

To date about a dozen department and agencies have been before the joint committee to "explain" their budgetary requests — and so far about the only questions asked of the department heads have been those offered by minority opposition Democratic members of the joint committee.

Administration Republican members? They're bound to lose their voices — not from over-talking but from saying nothing! In fact at least two GOP members of the joint "probing" committee have been noticed sound asleep from time to time (to the consternation and irritation, it might be noted, of House Appropriations Committee Chairman H. Jack Seltzer, of Lebanon County).

This "joint" appropriations committee phase is interesting. Within the space of the past dozen years, the joint committee setup has been the vogue during four legislative years — each time when Republicans controlled both the House and Senate.

In the remaining eight legislative years — when Democrats controlled the House of Representatives — the respective House and Senate Appropriations Committees held their own separate budgetary hearings.

It was during these latter separate budget hearings that affairs fiscal for Pennsylvania revolved on a rugged and ruddy basis, fiscal hearings and probes that weren't geared to wind up in a few weeks of hapless review.

The same is to be said of Republican legislators when they controlled the Senate and Democratic chief executives ruled the roost in the front office.

By and large the system developed an extremely close scrutiny of gubernatorial budgets, a fine-toothed noticeably absent when the two legislative chambers and the Governor's Office are in control of the same party as at present.

The 1965 and 1966 legislative sessions illustrate the point from a more contemporary view. In those two sessions anti-Administration Democrats controlled the House (to the utter exasperation of the fuming, chafing-at-the-bit Republican Scranton Administration).

In both legislative years House Democrats rode herd hard on the budget, screening, probing and forcing justification for every taxpayer dollar to be spent. The same can be said of Republicans during the Democratic tenures of Governors Leader and Lawrence.

Today the story is different. The Republican Shafer Administration has submitted its near $2 billion budget which is being "screened" (or perhaps "peered at" would be more appropriate) by fellow Republican lawmakers dominating the two appropriations committees — sitting as a single (rubber-stamp) unit, with minority Democratic members about the only ones doing any real probing, questioning or serious scrutiny of the taxpayer-supported bundle.

In four days of hearings this week the joint committee has projected skimming over the budget requests of 14 state agencies — including five yesterday alone!

Q: Can alimony payments be legally raised any time after the divorce settlement?

A: Payments for the support of the children (but not the wife) can be raised if conditions have changed to boost the cost of their support. IF the amount of payment originally agreed upon was not reasonable in terms of the actual needs of the children and IF the father is financially able to boost his contribution.

Q: Is there any way to cut the high costs of divorce?

A: "By staying married!" Ploscowe shouted when I put this question to him. But, short of prevention, just about the only way to hold down divorce costs is to keep negotiations over property, alimony and especially children to a minimum. Obviously the more legal infighting, the more time lawyers will have to spend and the higher will be their total charges.

Q: How is family property divided in a divorce?

A: Frequently the family house and the family car go to the wife. Any jointly-owned real estate (or the proceeds from sale of this property), bank accounts, stocks and bonds are divided 50-50. Each spouse keeps any property or savings which are held in his own name.

Q: What about the breadwinner's life insurance and family medical insurance policies?

A: Often, the husband is required to keep his divorced wife as beneficiary of his life insurance policy until she remarries, and also to maintain medical insurance for his family, including his ex-wife.

Q: What are the tax considerations in divorce?

A: In general, the wife must pay Federal income taxes on any periodic alimony paid to her for her support and the husband can take a deduction for this. On any extra amounts he contributes for the support of his children, the husband gets no deduction and the wife pays no tax. But the main tax angle in divorce is that separate tax returns must be filed by each spouse, instead of the less expensive joint return they could file as a married couple.

Hidden Divorce Costs

If you are considering a divorce today, the total costs — in legal fees, transportation to Reno or Mexico, alimony payments — can immediately run into the thousands of dollars. But these direct outlays are only a part of the actual total costs of divorce.

In yesterday's column I gave you the hard financial facts from Judge Morris Ploscowe, a prominent New York lawyer, author and university professor on alimony, legal fees, etc. Today's column will present his estimates of some of the less obvious, indirect costs of divorce.

Q: How is family property divided in a divorce?

A: Frequently the family house and the family car go to the wife. Any jointly-owned real estate (or the proceeds from sale of this property), bank accounts, stocks and bonds are divided 50-50. Each spouse keeps any property or savings which are held in his own name.

Q: What about the breadwinner's life insurance and family medical insurance policies?

Q: What are the tax considerations in divorce?

A: In general, the wife must pay Federal income taxes on any periodic alimony paid to her for her support and the husband can take a deduction for this. On any extra amounts he contributes for the support of his children, the husband gets no deduction and the wife pays no tax. But the main tax angle in divorce is that separate tax returns must be filed by each spouse, instead of the less expensive joint return they could file as a married couple.

Q: What other "indirect" costs are there?

A: If the divorced wife finds she must go to work to make ends meet, and often she must, at least part-time, this will also mean the added costs of maid service or babysitters if she has small children. And these costs, of course, will slash her net income.

But the biggest single indirect cost is that of maintaining two separate households instead of just one. This may involve considerable moving expenses for both husband and wife, if neither can afford to keep the larger house or apartment the family had lived in. It may also mean that both spouses will be forced to cut their living standards in half.

Q: Can alimony payments be legally raised any time after the divorce settlement?

A: Payments for the support of the children (but not the wife) can be raised if conditions have changed to boost the cost of their support. IF the amount of payment originally agreed upon was not reasonable in terms of the actual needs of the children and IF the father is financially able to boost his contribution.

Won't Ignore Doddism

WASHINGTON — Judging by the mail that has been flooding both Congress and this newspaper office, the issue of Doddism is much broader than that of Tom Dodd himself.

The public is fed up with having one law for it and another law for Congress. People figure that the men who write the laws should not only know them but live up to them as conscientiously as those who don't write them but must obey them.

The case of Sen. Dodd is a very important example. The Senate is getting awfully tired of hearing about this case and would like to forget it. Senators have been hoping against hope that he would resign. But the public is not tired and will probably keep pouring on the heat, not only regarding Dodd but the whole question of ethical conduct. The least that the public wants is observance of the law; and, anyway you look at it, Dodd has violated the law in at least five instances as follows:

1. The Connecticut Corrupt Practices Act, Section 658C of the 1953 supplement to the General Statutes states: "The payments, expenditures, promises and liabilities which any candidate for Senator of the United States may make or incur, directly or indirectly, in aid of his nomination or election or both, shall not exceed one-third of the salary of said office for one year."

Dodd's salary as Senator for one year is $30,000. In 1963 alone, which was not an election year, he raised $54,663.

Dodd is a lawyer. He has practiced law in Connecticut most of his life, having been a U. S.

Military Targets Only

WASHINGTON — When it was decided to bomb inside the city limits of Haiphong last week, the Pentagon went to great lengths to explain the operation. The Defense Department said it was only bombing a power plant in the city and that very few houses had been damaged in the raid.

I went over to see my friend at the Pentagon to find out what REALLY was going on, and I found him studying a street map of Haiphong. He didn't deny that the bombing had taken place, but he did deny that the bombing was an escalation of the war.

"Our plan is to bomb only military targets in the city," he assured me.

"What are you doing with the map?"

"My job is to find military targets in Haiphong. For example, I notice that there are three army-navy surplus stores located here on Won Ton St. They might be worth bombing, except for the fact that Won Ton St. intersects the Fourth of June Blvd. where they have a maternity shop. It could be very dicy if we hit the maternity shop by mistake."

"That's pretty tricky bombing," I said.

"Now over here on Ho-Ho Road is a gas station that should be knocked out, but it's only four blocks from the center of town. Since we don't want world opinion to go against us, we've decided not to bomb anything within a 22-block radius of the Loew's Haiphong."

"That's a good idea," I said.

"No one's going to criticize you if you bomb that far away from the Loew's Haiphong."

"I'm not so sure. The peace-niks are liable to grab at any straw."

"What's that red target you have circled?"

"That's a combination police station and fire department on lots of Lenin St. We'd like to knock out the police station part of it, but we don't want to hurt the fire department, particularly since we're dropping incendiary bombs."

"I see you've got Phe Phung Lane marked up."

"Yes, that's a condemned apartment house. The CIA says they're going to tear it down next week, so we thought we would save them a lot of time."

"You people are all heart," I said. "Are there any other military targets you've got marked down?"

"Well, over there on Yum Yum Tree St. is the Mao Tse-tung Red Guard Chewing Gum Factory."

"Is that a military target?"

"Of course it is. The chewing gum is being used by the North Vietnamese to repair the struts on their airplanes. We knock out the chewing gum factory and we knock out their air potential."

"Then by all means knock it out," I urged.

"Now, here is the high rent district and it's giving us terrible problems. It is mostly residential but over here is the Behn Ho-gun Golf Course, and we understand that underneath it is a complex of tunnels with all sorts of tanks, guns and mortars. We'd like to bomb it, but we're afraid we'd get all the golf fans in America upset at us for wrecking the links."

"Not to mention the putting greens," I added.

"Exactly. So in deference to the golf buffs in this country we've marked the Behn Ho-gun off-limits at least for the time being."

"I don't see how they can accuse you of escalation when you're not even bombing their golf courses."

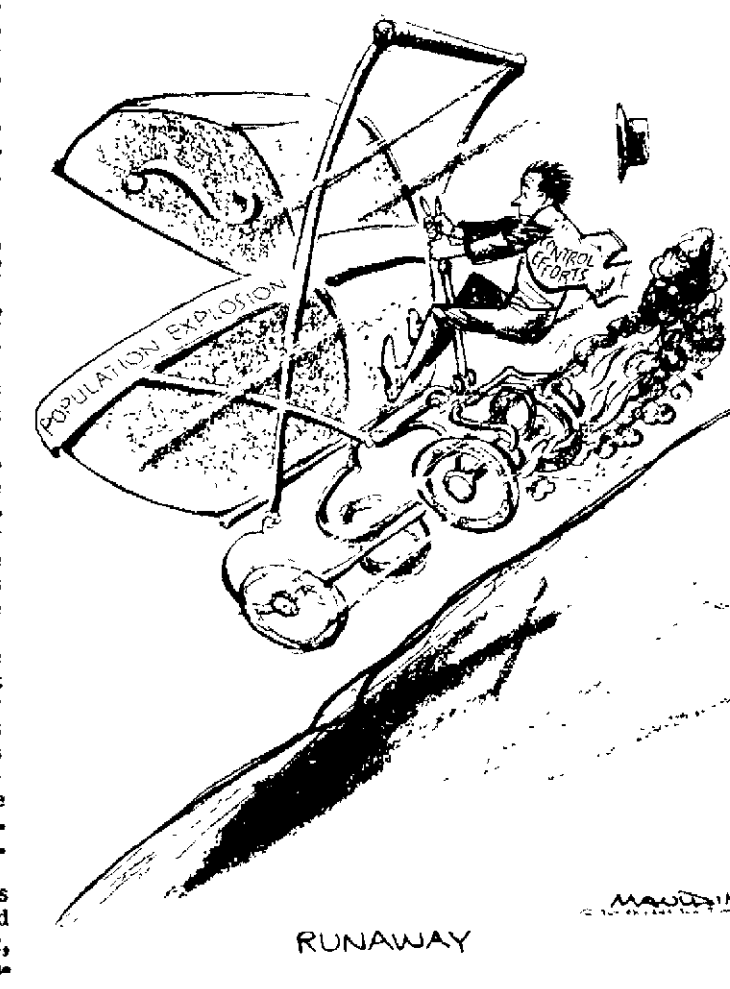

Just then an assistant brought in another map.

"What's that?" I asked.

"It's a street map of Hanoi."

"I was afraid of that," I said.

"Don't worry. We're just going to hit the military targets."

Paul Coppola Leads Local Keglers at State Tourney

A group of Warren bowlers rolled well in the first week of the Pennsylvania State Bowling Championships in Erie on Sunday.

Paul Coppola had the hot hand for the locals. He rolled 591 in the singles, the same score in the doubles and came back with a big 639 in the team event.

Coppola teamed with Pete Juliano in the doubles. Juliano hit a 553 series. Coppola's single games were 193, 175 and 226 for 594. In the tenth frame of the final game, Coppola had a split which cost him a 600 series.

Juliano's games in the doubles event were 172, 201 and 180. He also had split trouble in the final game as he left three tough shots. He did convert one of the splits.

In the singles event, Coppola tossed games of 199, 184 and 211 for another 594 total. Juliano started with a 163 but picked up to a 208 and 222 to finish with a 593 mark.

Coppola and Juliano added their scores in the doubles, 594, and 553, with a 74 pin handicap to finish with a 1221 total. This leaves them far down the line. The leaders, Tassin and Thomas, own a score of 1252.

Coppola had a 45 pin handicap in the singles to give him a total of 639. Juliano's handicap was 28 giving him a total of 621. Both are far behind the leader, Chuck Crawford, who had a 716.

The Warren County Insurance team did some what better. They currently stand in fourth place with a total of 3143, handicap and 2899 scratch.

Bowling on the team was Busy Pintagro, John Clark, Joe Manfrey, Coppola and Juliano.

The scores for the team are as follows.

Pintagro	208-187-167-562
Clark	178-155-173-506
Manfrey	168-258-187-613
Coppola	211-196-232-639
Juliano	182-208-189-589

Totals 947-1004-948-2899

Handicap 244

Total 3143

Leading in this division is Fulkroad's of Millersburg and Sahady No. 2 of Jefferson. Both squads have scores of 3165.

Bowling will continue for the next several weekends. Action is taking place at both Eastland Bowl and the Erie Coliseum.

'Koufax of Stocks' Lorenzen Retiring

By BLOYS BRITT
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Fred Lorenzen, the biggest money winner in the history of professional stock car racing, announced last night he is retiring from the sport.

The 33-year-old former Elmhurst, Ill., carpenter's helper has been a star driver for Ford Motor Co. since 1961. During that time, he set all-time money winning records, including a single season's take of $113,570 in 1963 and close to one-half million dollars overall.

A bachelor, the curly haired Lorenzen often has been called "the Sandy Koufax of stock car racing."

At a dinner in his honor last night, Lorenzen said that, like Koufax, "I want to quit while I'm on top. I've won everything that you can win, and there's no way for me to go now but down."

Top Ford executives, including Jacques Passino, head of the company's performance activities, attended the dinner at Charlotte's swank City Club.

The Ford people didn't announce a new driver for Lorenzen's spot on the factory team, but they did announce that Lorenzen's famed No. 28 would be retired as well as the off-white and blue racing colors.

Lorenzen, 5-3 and always impeccably dressed and tanned, said he has no immediate plans. He has no plans to marry and, because of careful investment of his earnings, he has financial security.

"I haven't spent a dime of the money I've earned racing," he said. "I live on other money, from endorsements and such things. I don't live big."

It has been known for several years that the golden boy of racing has invested in blue chip stocks and bonds. A close friend and associate said of him recently, "The closest friend he has is his stock broker and about his only reading material is the Wall Street Journal."

Lorenzen holds the NASCAR records for the most victories, 21, in races of more than 250 miles; the most superspeedway triumphs, 12; the most triumphs in a row in major races, 5; and is the only man in NASCAR history to have completed the sport's grand slam with victories on each of the South's five superspeedways.

Lorenzen concentrated his efforts mostly in the sport's big money events, although he won on many of the shorter tracks. His success in the major events is reflected by total winnings of $113,570 in 1963, $72,383 in 1964, $77,965 in 1965, and $36,310 in 1966. In the latter two years, Ford completed intermittently, however.

This year, he was plagued by an ulcer and otherwise had a run of bad luck. He qualified fifth for the Riverside, Calif., 500 and blew an engine early in the race. He won a 100-mile qualifying race at Daytona, Fla., in February and finished No. 2 behind another Ford driver, Mario Andretti, in the Daytona 500.

He blew an engine at Bristol in March and wrecked in the Atlanta 500 two weeks later when he hit the wall in a mixup with A. J. Foyt.

Lorenzen began racing hot rods in the Chicago area in 1955. He won both the Soldiers Field and O'Hare Speedway titles in 1956, then came South to run in NASCAR's minor leagues in 1957. After little success, he went back to the Midwest to run on the United States Auto Club circuit in 1958 and 1959, winning USAC's stock car title both years.

Bell Leaves Villanova For Pro Job

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP)—Alex Bell, head football coach since 1960 at Villanova University, resigned yesterday to accept a scouting job with a group of National Football League clubs.

The 51-year-old Bell said he hated to leave Villanova but the scouting post was too good to turn down. He will work for BLESSTO-V, covering New England and the Eastern States. The clubs in the group are Cleveland Browns, Detroit Lions, Philadelphia Eagles, Pittsburgh Steelers and Minnesota Vikings.

Bell had a career record at his alma mater of 35-30. Villanova last season finished with a 6-3 mark, winning its last five games. He turned in five winning seasons, including two bowl games.

Bell played on two undefeated football teams at Villanova under Harry Struhldreher and Clipper Smith. He graduated in 1938, then played briefly for the Detroit Lions of the National Football League until he suffered a shoulder injury.

He started coaching 23 years ago and was at Loyola of Los Angeles, St. Augustine in California, Harvard University, and Delone Catholic in McSherry, Pa., before going to Villanova.

Bell said he would continue to live in the area while working for the NFL scouting organization.

New Rifles Coach

TORONTO (AP) — Jackie Parker, former star back for Mississippi State and Edmonton of the Canadian Football League, was named head coach of the Toronto Rifles of the Continental Football League yesterday. He signed a three-year contract.

Parker, 29, of Hueytown, Ala., left his driving job with Mercury's factory team to join Owens and will drive a 1967 Dodge Charger. Allison will replace David Pearson, who split with Owens last week.

Owens said Allison will drive the No. 6 Charger in the 150-mile race at Richmond Sunday. "We expect to make most of the remainder of this season's Grand National events," said Owens, "including as many short track races as our budget will allow."

Allison, long one of NASCAR's top independent drivers, won three Grand National events last season in his own 1966 Chevrolet equipped with a small engine. He competed in 30 events and finished in the top ten 15 times, winning more than $25,000.

Owens, long one of the sport's top engineer-builders after a long and colorful career as a driver, and Pearson won the Grand National title last year and more than $70,000 in prize money.

Allison built his reputation as a driver by winning four national titles in NASCAR's modified-sportsman racing division. In all, he won 163 events on the modified circuit before turning to the more elite Grand National division two years ago, when he won rookie of the year honors.

THIRD STANLEY CUP GAME TONIGHT

Canadiens Hope to Stop Hard Checking by Leafs

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs are preparing for another tight checking game, while the Montreal Canadiens are experimenting with ways to counter-act it in the third game of the Stanley Cup finals tonight.

The Canadiens, who became confused with the tenacious positional play of the Leafs in Toronto's 3-0 victory in the second game at Montreal Saturday, tested a number of different line formations in a practice session yesterday.

Coach Toe Blake explained that he was experimenting in case of injuries, but the Canadiens' coach did the same thing during the third period of Saturday's game in an attempt to get his club back in the game.

Meanwhile, Coach Punch Imlach ran his Leafs through a rough practice session, emphasizing checking with his wingmen skating without sticks.

Blake said his team is ready for the third game. The entire club is healthy.

"There is no panic situation," he said.

Imlach was a bit more emphatic about his club's chances of winning the series.

"We won the big one in Montreal—and that's the one we were after," Imlach said. "Now they have to win here."

Imlach, without mentioning referees, said his club has been getting hurt "by things nobody ever sees."

Imlach said Larry Jeffrey and Tim Horton both were injured during the semifinal series against the Chicago Black Hawks.

"Horton's nose was smashed by a high stick from Dennis Hull, and Jeffrey was speared by Pierre Pilote," Imlach said. "Johnny Bower was cut in the face by John Ferguson's stick Saturday, and Peter Stenkowski was almost lost to us when he was speared in the same game."

"All four infractions should have cost the other team five-minute penalties," someone suggested that Im-

Benvenuti Nose Surgery May Postpone Fight

MILAN, Italy (AP) — The world middleweight title fight between champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy and Emile Griffith scheduled for July 13 in New York might be postponed because of plastic surgery on Benvenuti's nose.

The newly crowned champion injured his nose when he won the championship from Griffith in New York's Madison Square Garden April 17.

A doctor who visited Benvenuti said the champion "must be operated on as the injury is serious for a boxer."

The doctor said that a skin transplant would be necessary. "Otherwise the injury would reopen at the first punch with serious consequences," he added.

The operation would mean a month of inactivity for Benvenuti.

LONDON (AP) — The English Football Association did an about-face yesterday and proposed that a soccer team be allowed up to two substitutes in every game whether players are injured or not.

It also advocated that charging the goalkeeper be prohibited altogether in the penalty area.

The proposals are to be sent to the International Board of the World Soccer Federation.

Both represent a complete reversal of the position England always has taken.

For years, English players have annoyed foreign teams by charging the goalkeeper when he held the ball and the FA has argued that it's part of the rules.

Until last season, the English obstinately held out against all substitutes. Now teams in both the English and Scottish Leagues are allowed one substitute.

Dawn Glory Entered As Derby Darkhorse

NEW YORK (AP) — Dawn Glory, the Puerto Rican colt who finished third to Damascus in Saturday's Wood Memorial, will make the Kentucky Derby scene after all.

One of the co-owners of Dawn Glory changed his mind and decided to ship the colt to Churchill Downs today as the result of rising pressure from the Puerto Rican fans.

Max Gluck reversed himself and decided not to send Damascus to the Derby.

"The islanders consider Dawn Glory one of their own," said co-owner Elejan Herrero. Then he added in a joking tone, "They'll hang me if I don't start him. It will give them something to shout about."

Earlier Herrero, speaking of the favored Damascus and Successor, had said, "I want no part of them in the Derby. My horse might get in the way."

Herrero praised Damascus as "one whale of a horse." Referring to Successor, he added, "And there is another one whale of a horse down in Kentucky."

Damascus won the Wood at Aqueduct by six lengths over Gala Performance. Dawn Glory was another three lengths back, beaten by nine. Proviso was sixth, 11 lengths behind the winner.

Horsemen will be watching the performance of Successor, from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, in Thursday's Blue Grass Stakes at Kenneland in Lexington, Kentucky.

Hirsch Jacobs was forced to withdraw Reflected Glory, the Flamingo winner, from Derby consideration because of a sore left fore shin. However, Jacobs came up with a Derby colt in Reason to Hall, a winner in Saturday's California Derby.

In reality, winner of the Florida Derby, will be shipped to Kentucky and will get his tune-up Saturday in the Stepping Stone at Churchill Downs.

Ditka Trade For Snead Possibility

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chicago Bears are reported close to dealing tight end Mike Ditka to the Philadelphia Eagles for quarterback Norm Snead, according to a story by Gene Roswell in yesterday's New York Post.

Ditka, who played out his option with the Bears last season and reportedly agreed to play with Houston of the American Football League next season after accepting $50,000 from the Oilers, will become a free agent May 1. If the Bears deal Ditka, it must be before the May 1 deadline.

"If it's the Eagles, it's all right with me," Roswell quoted Ditka from his suburban Chicago home. "I can stop any deal I want to. They can't force me to go where I don't want although legally, the Bears can trade me before May 1. I can still go to Houston, I guess."

The Post said Washington and the New York Giants also were interested in Ditka.

The Bears, Eagles, Washington and New York Giants are in the National Football League.

In Chicago, George Halas Jr., president of the Bears, said that "talks have been had with the Eagles and other clubs regarding Ditka."

"As for the Eagles, Snead and other players were mentioned, but nothing tangible has been resolved at this stage."

Damascus won the Wood at Aqueduct by six lengths over Gala Performance. Dawn Glory was another three lengths back, beaten by nine. Proviso was sixth, 11 lengths behind the winner.

Horsemen will be watching the performance of Successor, from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, in Thursday's Blue Grass Stakes at Kenneland in Lexington, Kentucky.

Hirsch Jacobs was forced to withdraw Reflected Glory, the Flamingo winner, from Derby consideration because of a sore left fore shin. However, Jacobs came up with a Derby colt in Reason to Hall, a winner in Saturday's California Derby.

In reality, winner of the Florida Derby, will be shipped to Kentucky and will get his tune-up Saturday in the Stepping Stone at Churchill Downs.

Sports of The Times Arthur Daley The Underdog Manager

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK—Eddie Stanky stared broodingly at the filet mignon on the plate in front of him. He sighed as he measured it with his eyes. He held knife poised over the steak and looked questioningly at his dining companion, Ed Short, the general manager of the White Sox.

"Do you think this is two ounces?" asked Stanky.

"Just about," said the cheerful and unhelpful Short. "Make sure you don't cheat. When the doctor put you on the diet, he limited you to two ounces of meat a day."

"I feed more than that to my pet poodle," grumbled Stanky. The dandy little manager of the White Sox is recovering from an attack of gout and sticks to—or is stuck by—a rigorous diet. The fact that his ChiSox are playing reasonably good ball has his spirits buoyed up. This he can comprehend because he insisted from the first day of spring training that his ball club would be in the thick of the pennant race. But he is totally baffled by the gout, supposedly a sign of the luxurious life and too much drinking. At least that once was the old wives' tale. "I've never been drunk in my life," said The Brat with a crooked little grin. "Heavens knows I've had plenty of occasions to celebrate. I remember especially the time the Giants won the pennant in 1951, the climax to the Little Miracle of Coogan Bluff. Wes Westrum and Larry Jansen pinned me on the rubbing table in the clubhouse and poured champagne down my throat."

"Nope, I never was a drinker. The first time I tasted beer was with the Dodgers in 1947. I'd lost about eight pounds and the doctor prescribed a bottle of beer with my meals. In those days I even had beefsteak for breakfast. Now I have to have cream of wheat. I'm on a baby's diet."

"The gout hit me in Dallas just before the season opened. A spot of pain the size of a silver dollar on my left ankle felt as if I'd fractured it. The pain was agonizing and I had to crawl on my hands and knees to get to the phone for help. It hit me again in Chicago and modern medicine removed the pain and the swelling within 24 hours. As long as I watch what I eat, I'll be okay."

Joining the manager in good health are his White Sox, Ron Hansen, out of action for almost the entire season a year ago after a back operation, is back as a sure-handed shortstop. Pete Ward has recovered from crippling injuries. Jerry Adair will be at second for the entire season and both Tommie Agee and Ken Berry have matured into full-fledged professionals. Also available for the first time is Walter (No-Neck) Williams. He's the only man on the ball club Stanky doesn't have to look up to.

Williams stands 5 feet 6 inches but weighs 190 pounds. He's a compact powerhouse who rips out line drives and doesn't like the nickname which was hung on him when he first joined the Houston Astros. The reason for the No-Neck tag is obvious. The astute Paul Richards signed him and the query was asked in the dugout if the squat Williams had received a bonus.

"No," said the flippant John Bateman. "But if he makes the club, Richards promised to buy him a neck."

The significant thing about the hustling outfielder is that he annually has driven out 185 to 190 hits in every league in which he's played. Stanky is bringing him along slowly so that he can rid himself of his anxieties and No-Neck undoubtedly will be in the ChiSox line-up when they next face White Ford.

"Ford pitched marvelously against us last week," said the admiring Stanky. "It was a miserable day, cold and raw. He was blowing on his hands to keep them warm. But he wanted both a shutout and a complete game. He got both. If he can pitch in 40-degree temperature, he can go any time. It's a thrill to watch an old-timer perform as artistically as he did—even if it's against us."

"It's a thrill, too, to see the way all these good young pitchers are bobbing up everywhere. When a kid like Jim Nash can win 12 games in half a season as a 21-year-old, it has to be a psychological boost for young pitchers everywhere. Those good, young Oriole pitchers were eye-openers in the World Series. Just the other day the Reds came up with an 18-year-old, Gary Nolan. Kid pitchers are here to stay."

If the White Sox have no infant prodigies, they at least have the oldest pitcher in captivity, Hoyt Wilhelm. The knuckleballing marvel is approaching his 44th birthday.

"And we have a lefthanded knuckleballer, Wilbur Wood," said Stanky proudly, "who may be as good as Wilhelm some day. He's 25 years old. I'm well satisfied with this ball club of mine."

He'd be a lot more satisfied, though, if he didn't have to restrain himself at the dinner table.

GOP CANDIDATE For COUNTY COMMISSIONER By Anthony Tomassoni

DATE LINE APRIL 15, 1967

TO THE TAXPAYERS AND VOTERS OF WARREN COUNTY: After reading all the pros and cons on the many problems that have existed in our county the past several years and still exist; it must be most gratifying to the voting public to see these solutions are simple political maneuvers. Of course, the impending primary elections could not be the cause of these long-awaited answers to such serious problems. Could it be that our present office holders have suddenly benefited from their years of public service and are now finally able to come up with these proposals??? How very timely for them!!!

I have concerned myself with all of these problems and have been bringing them to the attention of the VOTING PUBLIC through my articles that appeared in our local newspaper every Tuesday.

One individual calls for abolishing the office of Economic Opportunity; another speaks of the situation at the Rouse Home, and still another has a solution for the Hoffman Home. I have stated and discussed all of these problem areas in past articles over the last six weeks. I am well aware of all these problems and firmly believe that we have allowed these conditions to exist too long.

I stated in my announcement for this office of County Commissioner; that I believed that the year 1967 should be the year of awakening. I still believe this. I am not going to attempt to confuse you with figures or costs and by such methods thereby try to sway you with my overwhelming knowledge of statistics i.e.: the cost per child at the Hoffman Home or why the O.E.C. should be eliminated or the conditions that exist at the Rouse Home. All of these, plus all of the other problems that we have; we have been aware of over the several years. What can we do about them??

I repeat again my firm belief that we should make 1967 the year of awakening. Let us change all of this — LET US BEGIN — Let us not hesitate to wipe the present slate clean and begin a new era for Warren County by electing men who are going to get results not men who make pre-election promises for last minute publicity. Suddenly, it is time to vote and these individuals in their own minds feel that by releasing a few statements over the past few weeks, in regard to aforementioned problems, that they can create the feeling, hoping that the public will believe that they actually have been in accord with each other and that all of these problems have been uppermost in their minds. Well you and I know differently — it means that they are trying to survive — to hang on to their wonderful office and continue in the future as they have in the past; with nothing being accomplished. To give further support to their image they actually voted 3-0 in favor of the budget; this is the first time I have seen something like this.

LET US AWAKEN — LET US BEGIN — LET US take a new approach to all of our problems such as the AIR-PORT ISSUE, ANTI-POVERTY, TRANSPORTATION, TAX ASSESSMENTS, ZONING, our very important SENIOR CITIZENS, ROUSE HOME, and the HOFFMAN HOME. Each problem facing us can and will be solved if you the TAXPAYER — THE VOTER — face the facts. How can we forget the past performances over the years???

I solemnly promise if elected to do the following: The encouragement, enlightenment and advancement of all County officials. To reorganize and establish the social welfare of all county institutions for the protection and assistance of our SENIOR CITIZEN, THE SICK, THE ORPHANS, THE POOR and their DEPENDENTS and the needy in general with such material aid (State and Federal) for the eventual solution of all the problems facing us. With a final goal achieved in all these areas the results can only be the betterment of all the PEOPLE IN WARREN COUNTY. Finally, that the people of Warren County can be proud in knowing that the prestige and dignity of the commissioner office has been established, and that — RESULTS — have been attained at long last through dedication of purpose and a full time week has been restored to this office. For remember this, you the VOTER ARE THE EMPLOYER of all elected officials and the only way to assert yourselves is not to stay in a state of APATHY AND COMPLACENCY but to get out and VOTE. Our great constitution gives you this right, USE IT.

I earnestly SOLICIT your vote and support. I am applying for the position of a public servant, not, as a politician with a lot of fancy words and promises, instead I offer good common sense, hard work, and honesty and sincerity to serve you in this office.

VOTE THE NO. 1 POSITION ON THE BALLOT —
Sincerely, Anthony (Tony) Tomassoni

Lander Area News Notes

The Spring Music program given each year by students of the Lander Elementary school also included an "Open House" at the school Wednesday eve-ning.

It was well attended by par-ents, relatives and friends and enjoyed the enthusiasm of the children.

The school was gay with flow-ers and painted animals made under the direction of the Art teacher, Mrs. Sharon Redick. Preceding the program the par-ents toured the rooms to inspect the Science, Art, and school work exhibits. At 8:15 the pro-gram opened with welcome to all by the Principal, Mrs. Aline L. Burgett.

The program was given in the cafeteria, as follows:

Bell Ensemble (grade 6), "Lovely Evening".
Grade 1, Dance a Story, "Noah's Ark".
Bell Ensemble, "Au Clair de la Lune".
Grade 4, French play, "Paris in The Spring".

Bell Ensemble, "Fre're Jacques".
Grade 5, Russian Play.
Bell Ensemble, "Lovely Eve-ning".

Grades 2, 3, and Special ... Song Story ... "Lazy Brown Bear".

The French and Russian plays and the Russian songs were first done in English, then in the foreign language. One parent remarked "It really sounded like conversation".

Mrs. Marie Spofford, fourth grade teacher has taught French and Mr. Tom Grande, fifth grade teacher, has taught Rus-sian in spare moments.

Mrs. Burgett presented Miss Mary Mangus, music teacher, a corsage in appreciation for the fine work in training the chil-dren for the program. Mrs. Redick was absent but she too was remembered with a cor-sage.

Credit for the successful pro-gram should be given to the well behaved children, to the teach-

Vietnam Kickbacks Charged

By TOM BUCKLEY
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — A Saigon businessman was arrested yesterday on charges of accepting "kickbacks" from American manufacturers he represented here and illegally depositing the payments in a Swiss bank account.

Dr. Nguyen Huu Hanh, the governor of the national bank and minister of financial and economic affairs, said that the arrest marked the start of a crackdown on illegal dollar bank accounts held abroad by South Vietnamese. It is expected to add as much as $10 million to the government's foreign exchange reserves, he stated.

The kickbacks came, Dr. Hanh added, in the form of double or triple commissions for selling substandard goods, particularly textiles, at inflated prices to Vietnamese merchants. The prices were paid, he said, because of the continued scarcity of consumer goods.

A recent decision by the U.S. Agency for International Development to make hitherto confidential documents available to him, Dr. Hanh stated, had enabled him to proceed with the investigation.

In these documents, similar to export licenses, the manufacturer must state the amount of commission paid to foreign sales agents.

Dr. Hanh said that preliminary screening of the records he has received thus far, which covers only the period of April through September last year, had yielded the names of 60 importers and sales agents here who had banked their commissions in Switzerland without declaring them here.

If they had acted legally, Dr. Hanh said, the dollars would have been "repatriated" by the Saigon government and the sales agents would have been credited with their equivalent in piasters.

Dr. Hanh said that he would also "insist" on getting the records for the rest of 1966 as well as for 1964 and 1965. Illegal transactions in earlier years now come within a statute of limitations on prosecution.

These persons will be given a 10-day "grace period" to transfer their funds back to Vietnam, he stated. If they fail to do so they will be subject to arrest and a fine equal to three times the amount of the foreign assets.

Probe Cause Of Corry Fire

CORRY—Exact cause of a late Saturday night fire that gutted a Corry family's house on E. Columbus ave., leaving them homeless, is still under investigation.

Damage to the two-story frame house occupied by the Milton Dahl family which includes two school children, was estimated at $8,000, while damage estimates to the family's belongings are still undetermined.

Corry firemen battled the blaze for more than an hour before bringing it under control.

James Bond Lives On; Kingsley Amis Takes Pen

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
LONDON — The profitable saga of James Bond is to be resumed where the late Ian Fleming left it off.

Kingsley Amis, the novelist, said yesterday that he is writing a James Bond novel. He has been engaged to do so by the company that owned the copyright in the Fleming books, Gildrose Productions.

Amis is a long-time admirer of the Fleming works and has written a treatise on them. He is the author of such novels as "Lucky Jim" and "One Fat Englishman."

"I have tried so far as possible to write the sequel in Fleming's style," Amis said.

"I am also using a Fleming-style plot—it will involve skulduggery in the Greek islands. I am using a fictional island in the Cyclades, a new part of the world for James Bond."

In the last Bond produced by Fleming, "The Man with the Golden Gun," the reader left Bond in Jamaica in somewhat questionable health. He had been shot "in the guts," as Amis put it, but now seriously was uncertain.

"He's thoroughly all right when my book begins," Amis said. "He swings a golf club and says he is perfectly fit."

The novelist said there were a few weeks' work still to be done on the book.

155 County Farms In Commodity Plan

Final reports show 155 farms in Warren County have been signed up for participation in the 1967 commodity program of U.S. Department of Agriculture, Charles Camp, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Warren County Committee said yesterday.

Commodity programs operative in Pennsylvania are for wheat and feed grains. Signups ended March 6, 1967.

The following are county totals at the Warren County ASCS office:

The 155 farms signed up represent 34 percent of total farms in Warren County with corn or grain sorghum bases. Total diversion is estimated at 1,025 acres, or 25 percent of total corn-sorghum base acreage on signed farms.

A voluntary program, participants may drop out at anytime. However, according to office manager Gerald Bensink, 1967 price-support payments and loans on the two crops are available only to program participants.

A total of 11 wheat farms signed up in Warren County under the 1967 program. They represent 6 tenths of 1 percent of the county's total wheat farms. Wheat allotments on signed farms total 274 acres, or 28 percent of total allotment, 1967 wheat program provides for no acreage diversion, but to qualify for price support loans and marketing certificates it is necessary to sign up.

A total of 22,941 farms in Pennsylvania signed up under the feed grain diversion program, representing corn-sorghum base of 380,500 acres, with total intended diversion of 200,611 acres. Last year 23,327 farms enrolled, with corn-sorghum base of 382,815 with actual diversion of 222,113 acres.

In the wheat program, 17,576 farms in Pennsylvania have indicated intention to participate, representing a total allotment of 263,000 acres.

Nationally, 1,380,797 farms are signed up, with 70,057,200 acres of corn-sorghum base acreage. Estimated intended diversion is 21,531,000 acres, or 31 percent of total corn-sorghum base acreage.

In the wheat program, nationally, 822,104 farms signed up, with total allotments of 57,407,800 acres. This is 84.4 percent of national allotment compared with 82.3 percent in 1966.

Colombia-USSR Trading Depends on Guerrillas

Study Campbell Run Area Development

The Allegheny National Forest recreation program for the proposed Campbell Run resort area on the Allegheny Reservoir is being studied.

The area would be constructed by private capital and operated under a special use permit from the U. S. Forest Service, officials said yesterday.

Allegheny National Forest Deputy Supervisor Donald Gorton said the Campbell Run development, near Rimrock overlook, is incorporated in the early planning for the reservoir. It is a part of the over-all development for the Allegheny Reservoir adopted in 1966, by the Secretary of Agriculture's advisory council for the Allegheny Reservoir.

Bar Association Sets Law Day Plans for May 1

The Warren County Bar Association will present its annual Law Day observance on Monday, May 1.

Since the date also includes court calendar calls, a special tour of the court house offices will climax addresses by Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. and S. Knox Harper, president of the county bar association at 10 a.m. Monday.

Invited to attend the observance, which will begin in the large court room, are interested senior students (in civics or social study classes), at Tidioute, Northern Area, Sheffield and Youngsville High Schools.

Recreation planners Bill Arnold and Fred Weise, are negotiating with a contractor to conduct a feasibility study.

The Campbell Run recreation area contemplates establishment of a large motel, individual cottages for rental by families and groups, a nine-hole golf course, skeet shooting, rifle range, archery, large playground areas, heated swimming pool, two overlook areas, riding horses and bridle trails, tennis courts and other facilities for guests and the public.

The economic feasibility study will determine whether such a recreation complex would prove economically profitable to a private developer, with reasonable fees charged to the public, either as a seasonal or year-round facility. It will also assess its influence on other recreation facilities in existence or contemplated, within 50 miles.

The study will also seek to make an analysis and projection of demand for such recreation center over the next 20 years, as well as income and expenses that might be forecast over that period. The study will be made by a private consulting firm, experienced in this field.

If the feasibility study indicates such an undertaking would be practical and profitable, the successful bidder would be responsible for carrying out detailed planning and construction of all buildings and facilities, under terms of the special use permit, under supervision of the Allegheny National Forest.

Where Have All The Flowers Gone?

Would you believe a snow-mower?

This was the scene which greeted Warren County residents, many of whom had to trudge through the snow to prepare themselves for the coming summer. Four to six inches fell around the county, confusing robins and giving squirrels nervous breakdowns.

In the photo to the left, residents of Buchanan found themselves searching through their cars for an item they haven't had occasion to use for weeks — the snow scraper. In the bottom photo, snow-covered Fifth Avenue extension goes to the plateau above Warren. And at the right, a tree with budding leaves on Elm street lost a branch when lightning struck it.

All in all, it added up to one thing: the Ides of April don't have to fall on the 13th.

Warren Quartet Has Region Title

Four Barbershoppers from Warren returned yesterday from Syracuse, N.Y., with the regional title for barbershop quartet singing safely in their pockets.

They are members of "The Instigators," who took top honors from among 17 quartets at the regional competition of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

The quartet will travel to Los Angeles, Calif., for the international competition from July 2 through 8.

Surplus Food

Surplus food will be distributed to all Youngsville area recipients from the Rouse Home tomorrow. Hours are noon until 3 p.m. Friday's distribution is scheduled for the Columbus area during the same hours from the community hall. Bring your own containers.

In the Warren quartet are Paul Mahan, Steve Cruickshank, Dave Reynolds, and Bill Crozier. Their selection of songs included, "Don't Bring Lulu," "Dixie," "Back in Those Days Gone By," and "Little Pal."

All four are members of the Conewago Clippers, the SPEBSQSA chorus in Warren. Mahan resides at 306 Lincoln st. and operates Mahan Motors; Reynolds resides at 110 Pioneer st. and works at Pennsylvania Gas Co.; Cruickshank resides at 306 Conewago ave. and works at Baker's Cleaners; and Crozier is from Sheffield and works for Pennsylvania Gas Co.

The Instigators also will have a record on the market in the near future. Arrangements are complete with WJTN Radio of Jamestown to cut a tape recording. Arrangements are nearly complete to have a record pressed from the tape.

JUDGE DECLINES PETITION

Bright Loses Retrial Bid; Must Finish Term in Prison

By BETTY RICE

A 25-year-old New York State man and former resident of Bear Lake lost his bid yesterday to have a guilty plea entered by him in February of 1966 dismissed and a new trial ordered.

For the second time, Robert E. Bright, self-admitted armed robber who made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up Try-M Finance Co., petitioned on violation of his constitutional rights and illegal search and seizure.

In handing down his opinion yesterday Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. stated there was no indication that Brightman's constitutional rights had been violated since he had been advised of them by both a peace officer and judge in Chautauqua County; by peace officer Martha Lawson here; by the district attorney and by Judge Flick himself.

The jurist said the basic difficulty with the defendant's petition was that it should have been presented before his parole board "not here."

Following the testimony which started at 10 a.m. yesterday and resumed at 1:30 p.m. in the afternoon, the defendant, who was returned to Warren April 15 from the state correctional institute in Huntingdon where he is serving one to three years for the Warren armed robbery attempt, advised the court that the only reason he filed his petition was that his parole had been denied and he felt this was the only way he could get back to his wife and three children.

In dismissing the petition and remanding Brightman to police officers for his return to Huntingdon, Judge Flick stated it would be impossible to change the sentence in any way after the defendant having been advised of his right to counsel and his right to remain silent entered a plea of guilty. The judge noted that at no point in Brightman's petitions, arguments or statements did the defendant deny his guilt.

"The law," the jurist said, "is not geared to protect the guilty but only their right to say, 'I want a lawyer—you prove it at a trial.'"

Testimony reiterated that presented when Brightman was sentenced following the armed robbery attempt here on February 3 of last year, when Brightman, wearing a ski-mask, which concealed his features and carrying a gun, entered Try-M and demanded money. His mission failed since the finance company's manager had not yet been to the bank to get necessary cash for that day's transactions.

A complaint from the owner of a local motel that a man, using the name Robert Johnson, had left the motel without paying his bill. A check on the license plate of a car driven by Johnson revealed the vehicle was owned by Robert Brightman, of Cassadaga, N.Y.

Charges of cheating by common law and cheating by false pretense were filed and a warrant issued for Brightman's arrest. Police Chief Michael Evan, with Sgt. Donald E. Fitch joined with Chautauqua County Sheriff Merle Campaign and Deputy Arlie Wilson and Brightman was apprehended at his home and after being advised

Reservoir Gets Million Fish By Air Thursday

More than a million live large-mouth bass will be dropped from the air into Allegheny Reservoir Thursday from an aerial tanker. The airlift, the longest ever made in the nation, will put the bass in four zones of the lake behind Kinzua Dam, the Department of the Interior reported. The fish will come from the National Fish Hatcheries in Texas.

The million-plus fingerlings will be dropped from the tanker at an altitude of 300 feet into Kinzua Creek Arm, at Cornplanter Bridge, in Sugar Run, and Willow Run. Guiding the tanker will be a Forest Service plane.

Biologists from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife will be at the sites to check the survival of the fish.

The tanker is scheduled to leave Austin, Tex., at 1:30 a.m. Thursday. Arrival time at the reservoir is estimated at 8 a.m. This stocking is the first step in carrying out the provisions of the Fishery management plan developed by the fisheries bureau, the Forest Service, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, and the Army Corps of Engineers.

Lee Kelley, supervisor of the Allegheny National Forest with headquarters in Warren, is the local coordinator for the air drop.

Pittsburgh Youth Gets 10-20 Term

The shooting last year of a young rookie policeman in Mercer County who was making a routine license plate check of a car, resulted yesterday in the sentencing of a suburban Pittsburgh youth to a 10 to 20 year prison term.

Judge John Q. Stranahan of Mercer County Court handed down the sentence against Ronald Hardin, 16, of West Mifflin, who pleaded guilty to a general charge of murder in the March 21, 1966 slaying of Patrolman Rodney Wentling, 22.

The judge found Hardin guilty of second degree murder on March 3, 1967.

First news of the slaying of Wentling reached Warren when a former borough patrolman picked up a police radio broadcast. State police of the area set up roadblocks.

Cpl. George Barron and Trooper Richard DeSimone of the Warren substation spotted the getaway car with Hardin, his brother and another youth, fleeing in the direction of Corry. Officers gave chase and fired several warning shots which failed to halt the speeding vehicle.

The car, which was stolen, crashed into an old building in Corry and the trio was apprehended there.

Two Railroad Derailments Occur in Area

FREDONIA, N.Y.—Thirty-one cars of a New York Central freight train jumped the tracks early yesterday morning one half mile east of Westfield in Chautauqua County.

The train was westbound at the time of derailment which occurred at 5:30 a.m. No personal injuries were reported, according to state police here. Police said the tracks were blocked yesterday morning but details as to the extent of damage were not available.

Police officials said they learned of the derailment after being told to intercept a bulldozer that was passing on its way to Union City, in which 21 cars of an Erie Railroad freight train had jumped the tracks two hours earlier.

Breakfast Briefs

Learning the Ropes

James Urey, of 201 Jefferson st., yesterday started his training on the borough police desk. Police clerks answer between 700 and 800 calls for information monthly and take care of considerable paper work.

14 Cars Derail

The Pennsylvania Railroad single-track line in Turtlepoint was cleared at 11:50 a.m. Friday and service returned to normal after the line was knocked out of service Thursday night when 14 cars of the 93-car train enroute from Buffalo, N. Y., to Renovo were derailed. No injuries were reported. Railroad officials said the accident was caused by a broken rail. Cars 74 through 87 carrying miscellaneous cargo, were derailed.

Install Officers

Installation of Moose Club officers will take place at 7:30 p.m. today at the lodge. Governor for the coming year is Clifford Clark. Gordon MacDonald will be lieutenant governor.

McNerney Visiting

Dr. Chester T. McNerney, who was inaugurated Saturday as the 13th president of Edinboro State College, will be in Warren this morning to officially review the Warren campus of ESC. Those on hand to greet him will include Frank Johnson, the local campus director.

Completes Course

Wells Corp. since June, 1964, and is employed as a junior draftsman.

DPMA Meeting

The Penn-York Chapter of the Data Processing Management Association will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Ho-Sta-Geh Motel, Clean, for a seminar on the COBOL and FORTRAN programming languages. Dinner begins at 7 p.m., with social hour beginning at 6 p.m. Reservations are to be made with Paul Pfaff, Zippo, Bradford.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

The American Pavilion at Expo 67 was shown to the press the other day. It probably was their biggest mistake to date. But, the boys in charge of the American exhibit have a great deal of experience in making booboes. They work for (or against) the United States Information Agency, and there's no place that can give you more experience in the field.

This time, they win the blue ribbon for botching the job. The exhibits in Expo 67 will show the United States at the pinnacle of mediocrity. Old film clips, such as you see on the Late-Late Show; Andy Warhol paintings, like those made by barefooted beardedies walking alternately through paint and onto canvas; old Wilkie buttons and "I Like Ike" stickers—that's the sort of thing you'll find.

It's all done up nicely, though, with spheres and towering plastic tunnels lending "spatial reference" to the whole thing. That means it cost a lot of money and utilizes wasted space as a monument to extravagance.

The theme is "Creative America," and the USIA bunch dug around the whole country to find things that were typically American and creative. They have guitars, quilts, and any number of other examples of ingenuity.

But they missed the boat on a few points. Musically, there is not one single rock-and-roll band from Waukegan, Ill. In the field of poetry, the pavilion is bereft of the works of Allen Ginsberg or Lawrence Ferlinghetti. And no one asked my Aunt Sophie for the button collection she's fashioned into a rock garden.

If American mediocrity had to be exhibited, it pains me to think our appointed representatives let us down so shoddily by only doing half the job. It says nothing for our inventiveness.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Everybody cries on your shoulder and I want my turn. I honestly don't know what you can do to help me but just letting off steam is worth something.

I'm a dairy worker who wants to stay on the farm but I don't see how I can. Most dairy farmers work almost 16 hours a day and don't even make enough money to support their families. We have to keep up a good front for the cows because if they catch us looking sad THEY get depressed and you know Old Bossy's output depends on how happy she is.

I know I could make more money and work shorter hours if I went into another line of work but I like dairy farming and I think I am needed. I don't want to quit. Please give me some advice, Ann Landers, and some hope, if you can. — C. P., RUDYARD, MICH.

DEAR C.P.: I don't know much about dairy farming, but I have a good friend who does. I have asked Sec. of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to respond to your letter. Here is his answer:

Dear Mr. C. P.: Please don't quit. We need you. Every word of your letter is true. Dairy farmers are overworked and underpaid. Most dairy farmers get up at 4 o'clock in the morning seven days a week, and their average pay runs approximately 60 cents an hour.

When dairy farmers began to leave the farms in droves last year to take jobs offering better pay and shorter hours, the Department of Agriculture gave milk supports a healthy boost. This kept some of the dairy farmers on the job. You were one who stayed, and we are grateful.

Please don't give up. We are keeping an eye on you fellows. Tell this to your cows, too. We want them to be happy so they will give more milk and your income will go up. You deserve it. — Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It is exactly one year ago today that he left me. I was 30. He had a beautiful home and three handsome sons who look very much like their father. I remember now the times he asked me to invite his mother to dinner. I said, "I refuse to put myself through the agony. I can't stand her." And then there were the times he asked me to invite his business associates for cocktails. I told him to keep his business friends out of our home because they were not our social equals, and it wouldn't do to mix the two.

One morning he left for work as usual. He telephoned from his office to say he was coming back at 3:00 P. M. — to pack his bags. I asked him where he was going. He answered: "I am leaving you."

I replied, "You can't go, I love you." He said, "That's the first time you have uttered those words in three years. I've waited a long time to hear them. It's too late now, baby."

Ask the women in your reading audience when was the last time they said "I love you" to a hard-working husband. I have said those words many times lately, but my husband has not been around to hear me. — STILL HURTING

DEAR HURTING: Some people are smart enough to learn from the mistakes of others. Here's your letter for those favored few. Thanks for writing.

Barbara Ann Raleigh

Bride of Richard Thomson

Barbara Ann Raleigh and S/4 Richard Eugene Thomson, U.S.A., were united in marriage on Saturday, April 15, in a 2 o'clock afternoon service at Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church. The Rev. Richard H. Baker, rector of the church, read the double ring wedding rites in the presence of one hundred and twenty-five guests. Altar decorations were carried out in arrangements of pink and white carnations and gladioli.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a gown of white chiffon over taffeta sheath style with short sleeves. Her veil of silk illusion was secured by a cluster of star points encircled with pearls and crystals. She carried gladioli and white carnations encircling a corsage of white baby roses. Her only jewelry was the gift of the groom, a teardrop crystal necklace with matching earrings.

The matron of honor, Mrs. David Thomson, sister-in-law of the groom, was in blue brocade taffeta with matching tiara and net; her flowers were a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. The flower girl, Miss-tress Kimberly Ann Thomson, niece of the groom, wore a pink brocade taffeta frock with pink rosebud headband.

Best man was David C. Thomson, brother of the groom, and the usher was Thomas A. Raleigh, brother of the bride. The mother of the bride was in a two-piece green and blue crepe sheath with green accessories and the mother of the groom chose a beige lace knit with spring green and orange sherbet accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations. A reception was held immediately after the ceremony, in the church parlors with the one hundred and twenty-five guests attending. Aides were Miss Rebecca Tuller, Miss Dale Schweitzer, Miss Marsha Landkard, Miss Diane Schweitzer, managed the guest book.

For a brief wedding trip to Ohio and West Virginia, the new Mrs. Thomson wore a mint green suit with beige accessories and the rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Both are graduates of Warren Area High School, Class of '65. The bride is employed by Nu-Lite Company, and the groom, is presently stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, serving with the 92nd Engineers Battalion.

A pre-nuptial party was given by Mrs. David C. Thomson, and the rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the groom. Out of town guests attended the wedding from Pittsburgh, and Erie, Penna.; Summit, New Jersey; Akron, Ohio; and Lakewood, New York.

Official Beta Sigma Phi Week

Governor Shafer proclaimed this week, from April 24 to April 30, to be Beta Sigma Phi Week in Pennsylvania. The Harrisburg chapters and the Harrisburg City Council of Beta Sigma Phi have expressed their gratitude for the Governor's interest in the organization.

Approximately 5300 Pennsylvania members will celebrate Founder's Day on April 30. The sorority was founded thirty-five years ago in Abilene, Kansas, with the purpose of bringing women of many interests together; to co-mingle their diversified talents and ideas for a greater cultural and social development. The Pennsylvania members have given of time and talents in working for the good of the community, state and nation; their philanthropic projects aiding in many fields related to health and welfare.

The Warren chapter will celebrate this anniversary by joining with the Jamestown chapters in a gala banquet to be held Thursday, April 27, at the Moon Brook Country Club. A social hour will be held at 6:30, with dinner to be served at 7.

The international organization, with chapters in fifteen countries, has an active membership of 150,000. Through its endowment fund, supported by the individual chapters including Warren's Epsilon Epsilon, it has contributed thousands of dollars each year to its oldest project—Cancer Research. Other projects benefiting from funds raised by the international society are Girlstown U.S.A., at White Face, Texas; National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation; scholarships in English, and music, and a novelist's award. Additional projects the sorority chapters voted to contribute to last month include $10,000 per year to The Hope School in Springfield, Illinois, a non-profit residential school for the training and education of blind children with an additional handicap making them ineligible at schools for the otherwise normal but blind child; and $10,000 per year to Ranch Hope Inc. For Boys at Alloway, N. J. This is a rehabilitation home for pre-delinquent boys from ages 8 to 15.

The biggest service project of the local unit has been, and continues to be, the providing of Camperships for retarded children at Camp Complanter each summer.

The local chapter will again mark Founder's Day with the presentation of an engraved silver cup to the first Warren

Through The Looking Glass

Follow that rabbit! Through the Looking Glass to the magic of the Alice in Wonderland Ball. You will see him standing in the Woman's Club about 9 p.m. on the 6th of May with much in hand.

MAX DAVIS

Max Davis and his Trio Plus Three, well known musicians in the area, will provide the music for the evening. Davis, staid and serious, is a mere two hours away from possibly covering the keyboard with such agile velocity. What he is smoking in the local is open to speculation. The Unicorn is planning on bringing his "horn" in the hope that he will be invited to sit in for a set.

The Wonderland and sphere of the Hospital Auxiliary's Charity Ball will present the perfect background for the lady's loveliest gown. If she is inclined toward elegance. However, mode or dress is optional. Usually reliable sources report that the dancers will be wearing tails, and the Walrus is having his flippers manicured. The Cheshire Cat, of course, will be wearing a grin. The Dodo, being dumb, is mum concerning his costume. Refreshments will be served, but all efforts are being made to restrain the Mad Hatters and the March Hare from throwing another tea party. After all, who wants a Dormouse in their teapot?

Dress in your finest and put on a smile! Get a real festive-dine somewhere in style! When the feast's over, we'll go to the Ball—Red Queen, White Queen, and Alice, and all!

The Halls Of Ivy

Nancy Coyle, senior at Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio, daughter of Mr. Phillip Coyle of Warren, and Mrs. C. G. Dick of Warren, played the part of Harriet Woodville in Marietta's drama department's production of "The Mad of Mode", by Sir George Etherege.

It is one of the best of all restoration comedies of manners and is characterized by witty comment on the life and loves of the period's socialites.

The play was presented over the weekend, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠. South, the declarer at six spades, had his eyes set on developing the wrong suit and the result was a loss that ran into four figures.

West opened the nine of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. South entered his hand with the ten of trumps in order to lead a small heart toward North's queen. East won the trick with the king and exited with the five of hearts.

Declarer played the ace and continued with the establishment of the hearts by leading a third round and ruffing with dummy's eight of spades. East overruffed with the nine and returned a spade to remove North's last trump. South had two hearts left in his hand, and since there was no way to avoid losing another trick to West's jack of hearts, he suffered a two trick defeat.

Declarer would have found it simpler to develop North's diamond suit for, with the king being the only outstanding high card, South can afford to give up a trick in the process—if need be. Altho West's opening lead removes a key entry to the North hand, a simple unblocking maneuver will relieve the roadblock.

At trick two the king of clubs is cashed and South discards the ace of diamonds from his hand. The queen of diamonds is led next and if it is not covered, declarer merely discards a heart from his hand. Should West turn up with the king, South has no further worries, for he can discard three more hearts on dummy's diamonds which are now established.

When it develops that East has the king of diamonds, South merely continues to lead the suit until his opponent covers, at which time declarer ruffs. He now draws the trump ending up in dummy and cashes the remaining diamonds discarding hearts, and conceding one heart at the end.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 25, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Even if you feel that you've been beating your head against a wall in a futile try for success, keep on doing your best. You'll see results soon — in fact, sooner than you think.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — The Taurus who makes the best use of his talents now can reap a fine harvest, but those who have a frivolous approach to responsibilities and obligations could run into trouble. A word to the wise...

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — You amaze many persons with your quick grasp of situations over which they fret and stew, and this could be the case now. But DO be patient with those who are less alert and who comprehend problems less readily.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — If you have been negligent in the past, you can more than make up for it now, if you will put forth a little more effort and diligence into your endeavors. Offer all the good ideas you can; they will be favorably received.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Don't make changes in present undertakings — especially if others are involved — without careful thought and consideration for associates.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — If about to begin on a new project, give it a fair trial before dropping it, and don't start it at all unless you have completed pending matters. Also, be foresighted about what you plan, lest you make needless errors.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — You could run into some trying situations if you speak out of turn or act untowardly, unthinkingly. Pit your talents and good humor against obstacles and they will tumble.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — Some challenges indicated now, but you have the intellect and talent to best them. This day's efforts will be important to the future.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — If day's program seems devoid of the distinction you like, strive to give it that extra "touch" which turns the mediocre into stimulating performance.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Step up your pace and change your tactics where you see that your methods are outmoded, and be quick to recognize a new idea of worth — as the REAL CAPRICORNIAN usually does. Advancement indicated.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — If considering new propositions, study carefully and weigh matters pro and con, regardless of who wishes to hurry things through. View offerings with an eye to future value rather than immediate but transient gain.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — A good day for planning long-range programs. Neptune, in auspicious position, promises advancement if you are your intimately resourceful, ambitious self.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with an unusually keen mind and great manual dexterity, which is why you are generally so adept in most of the arts. Many of the world's finest painters, sketchers and designers have been Taurus-born. You may do your best thinking in solitude but can, under pressure, act smartly in the midst of bedlam. If self-disciplined and able to let your head rule your heart, rather than vice versa, you can attain great heights in whatever field you choose as a life work. Besides artists, Taurus men make excellent physicians, surgeons, nurses, teachers, technicians and historians. Birthday of: Edward R. Murrow, news commentator; Ella Fitzgerald, singer.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

DIRTY AIR

Polluted air seldom kills a healthy person. Exposure, however, may aggravate an existing lung or heart disorder and hasten death. The lethal effects are usually reported as "excess of deaths in exposed human population." For example, if 100 persons die every day in a certain city and the rate increases to 120 per day during a four-day smog, the excess fatalities are attributed to air pollution.

Many heavy cigar smokers blame contaminated air for their chronic bronchitis and emphysema. A Swedish study involving identical twins, showed that cigarette smoking overwhelmed the possible effects of dirty air. When doing research along this line it is difficult to make comparisons when competing causes exist.

Some reports, for example, show that city dwellers who smoke have 25 per cent more lung cancer than smokers living on farms 10 miles away. The type and concentration of pollutants play a role as well as the number of years of exposure and whether the individual had previous respiratory disease. Those with respiratory trouble are more sensitive to a variety of air pollutants.

Competing causes also enter the asthma picture. Air pollution may trigger an attack but most of these people also are allergic to other substances capable of inducing asthma.

Most of the research and preventive measures have been left to larger communities where the problem is serious. The federal government is being pressured into doing something. We wish them more success than they had with the problem of concentrated pollutants that come from smoking.

Air pollution always will be with us but the levels accepted will depend upon what is compatible with the health and comfort of the public.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request. TOMORROW: Baldness in Women.

EMOTIONS AND EYE DISORDER

L.J.C. writes: I developed glaucoma and my doctor tells me I must not get upset or excited. What is the tie-in between the emotions and this eye disorder?

REPLY

In glaucoma, pressure within the eyeballs is increased above normal. Excitement adds to tension and in this respect, aggravates the condition.

DIZZINESS

L.D. writes: Could Meniere's disease be caused by hardening of the arteries in a man of 57?

REPLY

No, but impairment of the circulation may lead to symptoms such as vertigo and nausea that are indistinguishable from Meniere's syndrome. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this condition.

CALLING ALL TEEN-AGERS!

You probably either own or want to buy a car. But if you don't know all the problems that go with car ownership and how to cope with them, you can be heading for plenty of trouble. Now, in a special series of 12 articles, Henry Gregor Felsen, a recognized car expert, tells you what these headaches are and what you can do about them.

He answers such questions as:
Who really owns the car you bought?
How much does a $500 car really cost?
What are the legal aspects of buying a car?
Where is the best place to buy a car?
How can you drive the best bargain?

You and your parents will find this series interesting, instructive and helpful. Look for

A boy in business for himself doesn't worry about summer jobs

Or fall jobs, or winter jobs, for that matter. Because the boy with a newspaper route—a junior independent merchant—has a year 'round income. The few hours he puts in each week not only provide monetary returns but the even more significant dividends of learning how free enterprise operates.

The business of learning the value of money, of keeping books, collecting, buying at wholesale and selling at retail is important. But not even money can buy the other skills acquired from route experience—learning to deal pleasantly with people, for instance, or the value of punctuality.

Your newspaperboy is learning all the time. His route experience helps him acquire the intangible skills so necessary for success both socially and professionally. He makes money at it, too.

Ticker Tape Parade

Dorr-Oliver, Inc., headquartered in Stamford, Conn., and with a plant in Warren, is probing the "environmental control" market for expansion. A leader in water and waste control for more than 50 years, the company works, on a 10-point program to provide anti-pollution equipment for industry and government. A major target: Florida's phosphate fertilizer plants, which spew more fume and dust than any other industry.

Speaking of foreign trade, the U.S. is hard-pressed to meet the competition with other nations in world markets. While the U.S. has set records on exports, big trading nations—notably Britain, Japan, Canada, and West Germany—are doing the same thing for the same reason: to correct trade deficits or to increase surpluses. The U.S. export volume in 1966 was $29.4 billion, an increase of 11 per cent and one of the biggest gains in years.

Detroit's automakers, staggering from the safety leanings and decreased sales and earnings, may take another on the chin within the next 10 years. Three groups of Japanese companies are experimenting with electric-powered automobiles that can be operated at low or moderate speeds for up to 50 miles without recharging. Such autos could be on the market in five years. The key to cracking the problem: developing a battery that will not outweigh its power potential. The batteries now make an experimental vehicle 50 per cent heavier than the gasoline-powered model.

United States car companies are having their labor problems, but there are problems within the labor movement itself. The long-awaited showdown between Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers and George Meany of the AFL-CIO is not far off. The showdown probably will not come, however, until after this summer's contract negotiations are completed with the auto industry.

The biggest strike in the rubber industry shows no signs of a quick settlement. No talks were held over the weekend and the companies are standing pat on offers already rejected by the United Rubber Workers Union.

Confetti—Robert W. Haack, head of the over-the-counter securities market, is heir-apparent to Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange. Rex Chabot, with Thomas Coupling of Warren among its divisions, has landed a research and development contract from the U.S. Army research laboratories to develop a waste water renovation unit for airfield construction. . . The proposed merger of National Biscuit Co. and Colgate-Palmolive is off, having been turned down by the stockholders. . . Crucible Steel's sales and earnings are down, with the sales falling to $78.4 million from $78.7 million and earnings dropping to $2.6 million from $3.5 million. . . Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. has changed its name to PPG Industries, Inc., effective April 1, 1968.

Inflation took an average bite of 4 1/2 per cent of personal incomes over the last year. The Consumer Price Index, which represents the goods and services used by an average person, reached 114.8 in February, compared to 109.9 at the end of 1965. This is far above the 1 per cent per year level regarded as healthy. The prospect ahead: higher prices for food, thus making for even more inflation.

First it was Volkswagens, the "bug" that evolved from the German equivalent of the Jeep in World War II. The next import to sweep American markets was Honda, the saucy little cycle that replaced tennis as the teenagers' top leisure time activity. Japan again captures the spotlight this year, with the Toyota, the sedan selling more than 500 per cent more cars in this country last year than in 1965.

On the federal front—the Commerce Department announced that personal income last year was up in all states, with Washington rising 13.1 per cent. Idaho was at the bottom with a 2 per cent increase. Nationally, personal income was up 8 per cent to $575.9 billion. Pennsylvania was at the bottom of the list for the Midwestern states but still far above the national average. . . Job prospects for junior college graduates this June are bright, the Department of Labor reports. The reason: a shortage of people with professional skills in the drained labor market.

DuPont Stock Rises Sharply To Boost New York Market

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Shares of E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., rose sharply yesterday and that was virtually enough to put the stock market into new high ground for the year.

The rest of the market went upward along with DuPont in early trading but fell backward in the afternoon. The closing tally on the New York Stock Exchange showed 629 advances from Friday's closing levels and 602 downs.

The gain in DuPont—8 1/2 points to 166 1/2—was the major factor in carrying leading market indicators to new highs for 1967.

DuPont is a component of the Dow-Jones Industrial Average, and its rise accounted for about three-quarters of the day's gain of 4.35 points for that indicator, which closed at a 1967 high of 887.53. The Dow-Jones Railroad Average fell 0.21 point to 230.31.

DuPont also helped other major indicators to post new closing highs for the year. The New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 0.16 point, to 50.81, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index advanced 0.32 to 92.02.

The New York Times combined average closed at 528.03, up 6.18 points.

DuPont was one of the 165 stocks that posted new highs for the year. There were four new lows.

Volume on the big board edged up to 10.25 million shares from 10.21 million on Friday. American Motors topped the most-active list with trades of 148,600 shares and rose 1/2 to 11, the day's high.

General Motors and Ford also were among the most active stocks. GM added 3/8, to 81 1/2. Ford rose 1/2, to 54 1/4. Chrysler added 1/4 to 42 1/2.

Plane Develops Malfunction

ERIE — Allegheny Flight 178 developed a momentary malfunction after take-off here late Sunday night with 22 passengers, precipitating a routine call for crash landing equipment.

The trouble quickly cleared and the prop-jet craft continued its flight to Scranton and Newark, N.J., according to an Allegheny spokesman.

West Lake fire department dispatched a rescue outfit to the airport as the flight circled back to Erie when one propeller failed to respond properly, according to Allegheny Station Manager Nicholas DiMauro.

The ship's captain had issued a routine call for crash equipment, DiMauro said, but when the trouble cleared the flight resumed without incident.

EXPERTS SEE GOOD RETURN

Investors Urged to Enter Camping Business

By DON NEAL

Five million campers can't be wrong! There is a reason they course the highways and byways of the Northeastern States from Maine to Ohio, and it is a very pressing reason that induces them to fight the traffic of the congested areas or bump over the inadequate highways of the backcountry with equal enthusiasm.

That reason is recreation—mostly of the type that every member of the family will in one way or another enjoy.

From the tip of land at Cape May, New Jersey, to the shores of the Great Lakes they search relief from the crowded conditions that exist in the urban areas where they live. Or seek to broaden their experiences by visiting places of natural beauty, historical interest, or those that offer sporting opportunities. On the tour they want to enjoy all of those activities usually classed under the broad heading of outdoor recreation. These were facts stressed by Dr. Maurice Goddard, Secretary of the Department of Forest and Waters, as he addressed a group of foresters recently at Bradford, in support of his statements, the Secretary pointed out that in Pennsylvania alone 650,000 camping trailers and units were presently registered, and the number was increasing daily.

Dr. Goddard went even further. He stated that there were few places anywhere where these campers could find what they were looking for in greater abundance than in the greater-central counties of Pennsylvania, and especially in the vicinity of the recently completed Kinzua Dam. This, he said, was a fact that would soon be discovered by the travelers and present facilities would be completely inadequate to meet the demand that will develop. Later, in an interview, Dr.

Goddard said that it would be absolutely impossible for either state or federal agencies to construct all of the needed facilities, that private investors must enter the field. Which brings up the question—will private campgrounds provide a reasonable return on the money invested in their construction?

A recent research paper published by the U. S. Forest Service, and authored by Wilbur F. LaPage (formerly of Warren), attempts to answer this question. In "Successful Private Campgrounds" LaPage defines the factors that contribute towards a profitable investment. The most important of which, LaPage states, is the ability of the campground operator to induce the camper to come back again and again to his facility.

In addition, LaPage and other recreational experts point out that the better class of campers, families with an average income of $10,000 a year or better, prefer private campgrounds to public accommodations and are willing to pay more and stay longer. That private campgrounds, as a rule, don't appeal to the "gypsy" element, or the one-nighter.

While living in Warren, LaPage made many other observations pertinent to the profitable operation of private campgrounds. One of these was that Warren County, a veritable virgin in the outdoor recreation field, wasn't attracting the cream of the camping trade at present, and shouldn't judge its potential on the basis of current campground usage. As the area became more developed and better publicized our potential would improve accordingly.

He also believed that the camping season in the Warren area, being much longer than that of the average recreational area because of spring fishing, fall hunting, and the tremendous beauty of our autumn leaf coloration, would contribute to the success of private facilities.

In short, the opportunity for the private campground operator in Warren County, according to LaPage and other recreational specialists, is outstanding. There are few places in the most populated section of the nation that have more to offer the outdoorist than we have in this county.

So when Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall said, "I can't think of a more satisfying way for citizens to get rich in the 1960's and 1970's while serving a deeply felt public need," he was undoubtedly advocating exactly what we need in Warren County—more investment of private funds in recreational facilities of all kinds, and campgrounds in particular.

2 Erie Area Men Killed in Accident

ERIE—Two men from the Erie area were killed Sunday night when the auto in which they were riding went out of control on Station Road near Interstate 90. Dead are Stanley S. Zaborow, 31, 19, Wattsburg Rd 2, and John David Whitman, 20, North East Rd 3. The car left the road, tore out 30 feet of guard rails, and hit a tree. It is unknown who was driving police said.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS' SURVEY--XI--

KNOW YOUR COUNTY

Public Welfare

A. ADMINISTRATION

Welfare Agencies

1. What agencies administer public funds for Welfare in your county?

Warren County Board of Assistance, Child Welfare, Surplus Foods, Hoffman Children's Home.

2. If there is a public welfare board, how are the members selected? Are there legal requirements for board selection?

What is the composition of the board?

Warren County Board of Assistance has seven members, appointed by the Governor. They are geographically representative of the county areas, and include doctors, nurses, housewives, all knowledgeable about social services.

Child Welfare has a board of 15 members, composed of a doctor, a clergyman, teachers, businessmen, housewives. An effort is made to have geographical representation.

Surplus Foods is a function performed by an appointed county official who is directly responsible to the county commissioners.

Hoffman Children's Home board is composed of the three Warren County commissioners who administer the home and the Hoffman Trust Fund.

3. What is the term of office and salary if any, of board members? What are their duties?

Warren County Board of Assistance: 3 years, no salary. Their duties: They meet monthly and are responsible for the local administration of the Public Assistance program. The State expects them to help the community understand the program, and to bring to the Dept. of Public Welfare the thinking of the community. The Board also hears appeals of staff decisions.

Child Welfare board meets once every 2 months. Term: 3 years, no salary. Duties: They serve in an advisory capacity and interpret the child welfare needs of the county to the commissioners.

Warren County Board of Assistance: Yes. Child Welfare director is appointed by the county commissioners.

5. Does the state public welfare agency supervise or cooperate with county public welfare officials? Yes.

DIRECTOR

1. If there are county directors of public welfare functions how are they selected? By the merit system? By political appointment? What qualifications must they have? What are their principal duties?

The director of Warren County Board of Assistance work is selected by the Board from a state legislative civil service list. To qualify, director should be a college graduate with a minimum of four years experience in public or private welfare. Duties: to administer the public assistance program in the county.

The director of Child Welfare is appointed by the county commissioners under state legislative civil service. Qualifications: College graduate with a master's degree in social services, if possible, and four years in public welfare, with two years in a supervisory capacity. Duties: To administer the care of neglected and dependent children.

Surplus Foods director is appointed by the county commissioners.

2. What other employees are engaged in public welfare activities in your county? How are they selected? By the merit system? By political appointment? What is the salary scale? What qualifications are required?

Warren County Board of Assistance has four case workers, employed by the board, and state civil service, with salaries ranging from $6390 to $7055. Their qualifications: College Graduate. There is a caseworker assistant, with salary of $5007. There are a typist and a clerk-stenographer whose salaries range from $3742 to $4329.

Child Welfare has three caseworkers, who come under state civil service. They are selected by the personnel committee of the Child Welfare Advisory Board with the approval of the county commissioners and the director. Their salaries range from $6390 to $7000. Qualifications: College graduates with some background in social services. There is also a clerk-stenographer whose salary range is from $3925 to $5007.

Surplus Foods has a staff of three part-time workers whose pay totals $3060 a year, who help with the monthly distribution of food. The director is paid no salary as such, as he presides over the appointed director of Veterans Affairs, also a county function. His work with Surplus Foods is accomplished at the same time he serves as director of Veterans Affairs.
